BRITISH SPURN MEDIATION

Der Fuehrer
And Il Duce
At Florence

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill has told Japan that Britain rejected any mediation in her war with Germany, the government announced today.

The announcement was made in the House of Commons by R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs.

RAF BOMBERS AGAIN BLAST HITLER BASES

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Droves of fighter-protected RAF bombers returned to the assault on the German-held French coast today following an overnight attack on Brest where the air ministry said "an enemy 10,000-ton cruiser of the Hipper class is known to be lying."

At least 60 planes were counted in the formations roaring over the channel today and ground observers said their probably were many more above the clouds, indicating a large-scale attack was under way. The RAF squadrons kept in perfect formation until well at sea, then they spread fanwise. Many of the attacking units swept over the Strait of Dover in the direction of Calais and Boulogne.

Informed sources in Berlin said at least three British Spitfires were shot down today when the RAF "tried to approach the French coast."—Editor's Note.

In last night's raid on Brest, the air ministry announced, the heaviest bombs loosed were among the most powerful ever used "for a target of this kind."

This blow in the British counter-offensive aimed at smashing Hitler's threatened spring sea assault and invasion plans was said to have "straddled" the berth of a German surface raider which may have been the one that tore up a British convoy off the Azores Feb. 12.

The fact that a German cruiser was said to have been at Brest "for several days" and the reports of survivors that a raider of the Hipper class carried out the convoy attack lent weight to the belief it was the same ship.

The Brest raid was the second in as many nights and the first since the port was taken by the Germans last summer. It followed by only a few hours Hitler's speech announcing plans to step up attacks on British shipping in March and April.

Navy Airmen Feared Lost

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP)—Two small U. S. Navy bombing planes, each with two men aboard, were missing today on a training flight, and the sheriff's office said it had received reports which the Navy refused to confirm that the craft had crashed with wings locked into the Pacific ocean north of here.

At the naval base officers declined to release names of the men aboard the bombers or discuss the reports, announcing only:

"Two bombing planes, each carrying two men, engaged in routine maneuvers, are unaccounted for."

"In a recent communication to the foreign secretary (Anthony Eden) the Japanese minister for foreign affairs (Yosuke Matsuoka), after referring generally to the European war, observed that Japan was fully prepared to act as mediator or to take whatever action was calculated to restore peace and normal conditions not only in greater East Asia, but anywhere in the world," Butler told the House.

"The Japanese minister for foreign affairs in subsequent public statements—made, he said, after consulting Germany—has indicated that his words were not to be regarded as an offer of mediation in the European war."

"In any case, the Japanese minister for foreign affairs has been informed by the prime minister that in a cause of the kind for which we are fighting—a cause in no way concerned with territory, trade or material gains, but affecting the whole future of humanity—there can be no question of compromise or parity."

The chamber echoed with cheers when Butler finished. His statement was a reply to Laborite Rhye Davies' demand for "the precise terms of the offer made by Japan to mediate between the belligerents in the present war and the reply of His Majesty's government."

Butler, on Feb. 19, announced that Eden had received a special message from Japan "on the same general lines" as the Japanese official spokesman's statement of the previous day.

Unsatisfied with today's answer, Conservative Robert A. Cary announced he would ask the government at the next session if it was "now in a position to disclose the text of that special message and the nature of our reply."

Eden on Way to Turkey for Conference

ISTANBUL, Feb. 25 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British Imperial general staff, were reported flying today from Cairo to Adana, southern Turkey, on their way to Ankara for a consultation with Turkish leaders.

These reports said that Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister, and Gen. Asim Gunduz, a high army official, left Ankara last night by train to greet the British party in Adana and that they would reach Ankara tomorrow.

Stimson Reveals Huge Transfer Of U. S. Guns to British Army

By ROBERT A. MCGILL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Secretary of War Stimson has advised the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that 895 of the French 75 millimeter guns of the U. S. Army were transferred to Great Britain after the evacuation at Dunkirk, along with thousands of old machine guns and rifles, it was disclosed today.

Stimson, according to testimony to be made public, also testified that 856,000 used rifles of the Enfield type, of which 250,000 went to Canada; 24,000 old-style machine guns, 62,000 obsolete air-type machine guns and 25,000 old automatic rifles were transferred at the same time.

The figures were given to the committee by Stimson after a committee member asked "whether it was true that 800,000 rifles, 40,000 machine guns and 80,000 French 75's had been transferred to Great Britain after Dunkirk."

DEFENDS TRANSFER

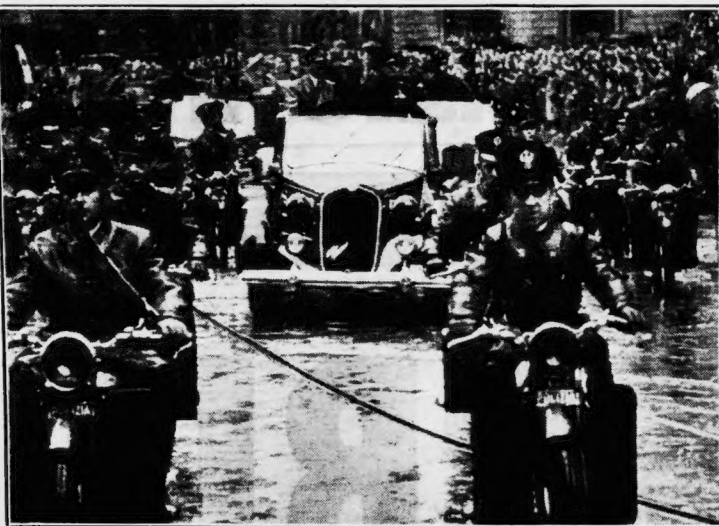

Defending transfer of the war materials as in the best interests of national defense, Stimson declared:

"The transaction was advantageous to us for these credits enabled us not only to obtain modern products but it also enabled us create appreciable productive capacity ahead of that which could be secured from our 1941 appropriations."

In reply to a question by another member Stimson said he did not have a record of the equipment lost by the British at Dunkirk, but esti-

AID BILL FILIBUSTER THREATS SPREAD; SHIPSTEAD WARNS U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Sen. Shipstead (R.) of Minnesota told the Senate today if Congress approved the Administration's British aid bill, "We will pay the bill with our money, our resources and the precious blood of American boys."

Shipstead took the floor as reports spread that opponents might launch a filibuster against the bill in an effort to talk it to death. One opposition Senator, asking that his name be withheld, told reporters:

"There will be a filibuster," but others denied this.

The eighth day of debate also included addresses in which Senators Murray (D.) of Montana and Barbour (R.) of New Jersey, urged speedy enactment of the lease-lend measure to bolster American security.

Shipstead, however, told his colleagues he considered the measure—with the broad powers it would confer on the President to transfer war equipment to other nations—"an evil thing."

FLAYS HULL MESSAGE

"We are not dependent on Britain or any other country," he asserted. "Whenever Uncle Sam finds it necessary to seek safety between the rear legs of the British lion, our beloved country will cease to be an independent nation and we will be no longer worthy of the precious heritage transmitted to us by our gallant forebears.

"May I add that, in my judgment, the most pusillanimous statement ever made by any American statesman was Secretary of State Hull's message to Premier Winston Churchill, asking assurance that, in the event Britain collapsed, the British fleet would not be surrendered to Hitler."

Amid the talk of filibuster, Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, remarked that if the Administration leadership "tries to push into night sessions we will find means to make our record."

BARCKLEY NOT SURE

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt and Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill discussed the legislation for an hour and a half today and Sen.

Barckley (D.) of Kentucky, said afterward:

"We hope to get it through the Senate by Saturday but we can't be sure of it."

Shipstead said it was his opinion the bill would confer on President Roosevelt greater power than Congress had ever voted to any Chief Executive, even in war-time. Any attempt to limit this grant of power, he went on, would be "utterly meaningless" because Congress had

CHELSEA EX-SUITOR PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO WOMAN'S MURDER

In a crowded district courtroom, John E. Flynn, 25, of Wai-worth st., Chelsea, today pleaded not guilty to a murder charge in yesterday's shooting of Mrs. Edith Rosetta, 37, of Williams st., Chelsea, mother of five children.

Flynn also pleaded not guilty to possessing a revolver during the commission of a felony, the serial number of such revolver having been defaced.

Lieut. Cornelius Duggan, Chelsea police prosecutor, asked for a continuance, and Judge Roscoe D. Waiworth set the hearing for March 5, holding Flynn without bail.

The accused, who told police he had been in love with the woman for seven years, was disarmed and captured on the roof of a Second st. junk shop, where he had taken refuge during a police chase.

STORIES CONFLICT

Authorities said he told conflicting stories, sometimes admitting he might have done it and then asserting Mrs. Rosetta killed herself in what was to have been a suicide pact.

Police pointed out that the victim was right handed and that it would have been difficult for her to shoot herself through the left temple.

Mrs. Rosetta was found unconscious by her daughter, Lena, 14, and Frank Corea, a neighbor, who ran in when they heard a shot. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Under questioning by Lieut. Cornelius and three sergeant inspectors, Flynn was quoted as saying:

"I might have done it. I don't remember. When I am drinking I forget everything."

LENA ROSETTA, 14
Found Mother Dying

Flynn said he visited the woman in the morning. She was ill and took some sleeping tablets.

"I don't want to live," he quoted her as saying. "I was in love with her since 1932," Flynn said. "There was nothing wrong

The heiresses are Miss Mae Bradley, 50, of Brighton ave., Allston, and Mrs. Florence Carle, 53, of 116 Broadway, Arlington. They are daughters of Ransom H. Bradley, who died last Oct. 21.

Miss Bradley, a brunette with graying hair, said the inheritance would not change her mode of living.

"I'm sorry you have to make public the amount," she said. "Enough people know my business."

NO LAVISH PLANS

Miss Bradley lives in a pleasant front room overlooking Brighton ave. for which she said she pays $5 a week. She goes out for her meals.

She has lived in Boston since Armistice Day, 1918, she said, coming here because she "was tired of Connecticut and always liked Boston." She has lived in Brighton ave. four years.

Laughingly, Miss Bradley put aside the suggestion that she might travel now that a large amount of money has come her way.

"I guess not," was her reply.

She added that she had always had an income.

The other sister, Mrs. Carle, was in Providence today, on her way home from Baltimore, where she had been visiting a son, Bradley, who was married recently.

LIVES MODESTLY

She lives in a modest two-family house in Arlington with her daughter and an adopted daughter.

Neighbors said she never mentioned possible affluence and lived quietly with her family. Her husband, Walter Carle, died some time ago.

The father of the two women was a wholesale commission merchant and agent of a Chicago packing firm in Connecticut for many years.

Revelation of the new riches for the two sisters came with the filing of the father's will at Putnam.

Girl's Suicide By Poison Laid to Quarrel

NEW DURHAM, N. H., Feb. 25

—A tiff with her sweetheart was blamed today by police for the suicide of Miss Doris Edwards, 24, of Wolfeboro, whose frozen body was found in a borrowed car.

Missing since Friday, the girl left a note stating she intended to kill herself, according to officers, who said she took poison.

Ralph Masten, 31, manager of a grain mill at Wolfeboro, who had kept company with the girl, and Sherman Parsons made the discovery. Masten told the police he and the girl had a slight disagreement on Friday before she left, but it was not of a nature to warrant such an act.

Medical Referee Dr. Forest L. Keay of Rochester, said burns on the girl's lips and tongue revealed that she had taken poison.

Winant in Final Talk With F. D.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (INS)—President Roosevelt today gave his final instructions to his new ambassador to Britain, John G. Winant, as the former governor of New Hampshire made preparations to leave for London by clipper plane tomorrow.

Returning from a week-end at Hyde Park, N. Y., President Roosevelt summoned Winant to the White House for a conference on Anglo-American relations with particular stress on the lease-lend program which the executive hopes to have in operation by March 15.

Bride Sees Husband Kill Ex-Film Man

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Nat Ross, 35, identified by Det. Lieut. C. A. Gillan as a former movie producer and director, was shot and killed last night in a doorway of a rag factory of which he was foreman.

Maurice L. Briggs, 25, a recent employee of the plant, was arrested a few blocks away and booked on suspicion of murder.

Among 25 women witnesses to the shooting was Briggs' wife, Betty, 21, an employee of the factory. They were married five months ago.

Gillan said Ross part owner of the plant, formerly managed a New York City theater, then became a film salesman, joining the old Universal Studio in 1929. He was an assistant to the late Irving Thalberg, produced "The Leather Pushers" and "The Collegians" and for years was a director in Hollywood and a producer in London.

Ross was married four years ago to Audrene Brier, an actress.

Gillan said witnesses told him Ross discharged Briggs a month ago, re-employed him, then discharged him again two weeks ago. Carl Laemmle, Jr., son of the late head of Universal studio, and Robert Hartman of Hollywood, a cousin of Ross, conferred with Gillan following the shooting. Laemmle said he had been a close friend of Ross.

le Loves Army, Bride Loves Him: War Is ---!

GLENDALE, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Ester Moore went to jail for a principle—she thinks she should precede the Army in her husband's attentions.

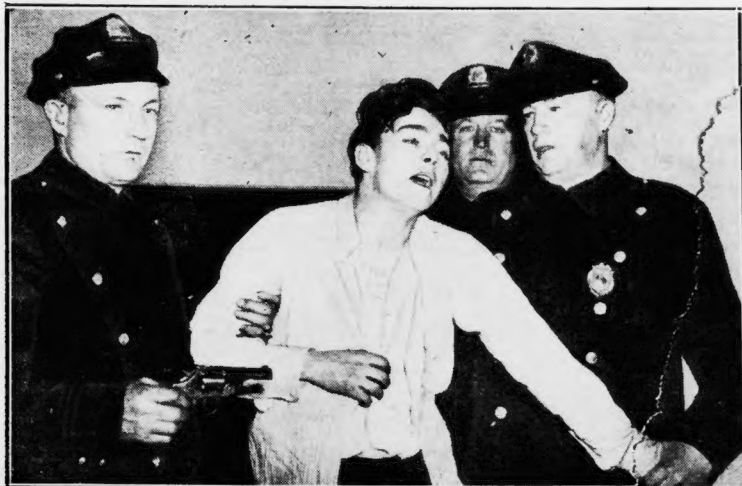

She was arrested on a disturbance charge after officers at an Army air school reported she persisted in efforts to force her way in to see her husband, G. G. Moore.

"Will you promise to stay away from your husband until he graduates, if I let you go?" Justice Burt L. Wix asked.

"No," replied Mrs. Moore, 25, a bride of a month. "I think a man's wife should come ahead of the Army and I'm going to see him."

So Judge Wix sent her to jail and ordered trial March 17, commenting:

"I respect wifely devotion, but the Army needs fliers and Moore only has two more weeks to go. He'll graduate if I can help him."

4 G-MEN JOIN SEARCH FOR KILLER OF STALIN'S SCIENTIST ENEMY

EVING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1941

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—G-men secretly joined New York detectives today in the search for the slayers of Col. Michael Borislavsky, 55, military scientist and one-time Russian officer, now believed a victim of international terrorists.

The Russian exile, an enemy of Soviet Dictator Stalin and recipient of death threats, was shot to death in the rear of Sacred Heart convent in upper Manhattan.

Although police tentatively said he met death while resisting a hold-up it was learned that both federal and city authorities are quite certain that international intrigue played a part.

ENEMIES OF STALIN

The murder was fully as mysterious as the death of Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky in a Washington hotel room two weeks ago. Both men long had been enemies of the Soviet regime.

Complicating the investigation and aiding in the theory of international murder was a newly invented aerial torpedo, a mysterious warning written in Russian and a family connection in the Nazi army.

Col. Borislavsky's most recent invention, an aerial torpedo, had already been submitted to the U. S. War Department.

MRS. VIORA BORISLAVSKY

Shot through the right eye, the inventor's body was found sprawled on a sidewalk behind the convent. Police found the bullet which pierced Borislavsky's spectacles and head and rushed it to the laboratory for examination.

Borislavsky was a member of a White Russian organization, the Russian officers' military alliance whose leaders, two of whom were slain in Paris, were targets for the Soviet secret police. He was 55 years old, six feet tall, weighed 250 pounds and was a graduate of the Russian Military Academy. He had been a naturalized citizen of this country for 20 years.

CLEARING BOMB

Col. Feodor Maybohn, the elain scientist's partner, declared that the aerial torpedo had been accepted by the government and that he and Borislavsky had also perfected a "smoke clearing bomb" that would revolutionize aerial photography.

Maybohn said he had returned from Washington Sunday night after being told that the government had accepted the aerial bomb and was prepared to pay between $500,000 and $600,000 for it. He was waiting at Borislavsky's $35 a month apartment when police arrived with news of the murder.

(In Washington the War Department disclaimed any knowledge of Borislavsky's invention. However, the National Inventors' Council reported that he had submitted a design for an "aerial torpedo" on Dec. 1, 1940, which the council had subsequently found "not necessary to national defense."—Editor's Note.

His widow, prostrated by shock, said that he had received anonymous threats of death three years ago.

"He received an anonymous warning in the mail," she said. "He believed it was because he had fought the Bolsheviks."

Gas Routs 2 Boys Holding Police at Bay

ECHO LAKE, N. J., Feb. 25 (AP)

—State police held today two 14-year-old, swollen-eyed Paterson boys accused of firing hundreds of shots at the officers during a five-hour "siege" of a summer bungalow before they were dislodged by tear gas.

State troopers said the boys tossed out a miniature arsenal of eight revolvers, shot guns and rifles and then came stumbling from the house early today. They were unharmed save for effects of the gas.

Police did not answer the gunfire since they suspected the bungalow occupants were boys.

The shooting began about 7 p. m., when Police Capt. John Moeller of West Milford attempted to search the house for looters.

Because they are minors, no charges were placed against the boys. State Police said juvenile authorities would be informed.

Moeller said he found an abandoned automobile which had been stolen Sunday from Ferry Hill at Fair Lawn.

Moeller said several bungalows had been looted and the window of one had been jacked up with a nail. As he attempted to raise the window, a shot was fired in the house.

He summoned fellow officers to storm the bungalow, but they were driven back by shots.

With the arrival of the troopers, the police called on the boys to surrender. A fresh burst of shots was the reply.

Moeller said the boys would not tell where they had obtained the guns.

Lucky Coin Traps Holdup Suspects

Tripped up, according to police, by their alleged victim's "lucky piece," an 1880 silver dollar, James Campbell, 26, of Dudley st., and Peter Murray, 20, of Albany st., both Roxbury, were held today in $5000 each for the grand jury in Roxbury Court.

The pair were charged with robbing Basil Bragdon, 29, of Moreland st., Roxbury, of $29. Police said when the pair were picked up in a restaurant one of them had the 1880 dollar that Bragdon said he had carried for years.

Judge No Cupid So Trial Is On

SALEM, Feb. 25—Judge John V. Phelan failed as a Dan Cupid in probate court today when he was unable to bring about a reconciliation between Mrs. Thelma Frances Brown of Sagamore st., Revere, and Alden Brown of Lynn.

In hearing a separate support action brought by Mrs. Brown, Judge Phelan called a recess and told the attorneys if he could speak privately to the parties he thought he might restore peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown emerged from the judge's lobby 10 minutes later—but not arm in arm. The case resumed.

Mrs. Brown testified that on Sept. 2 she and Brown had an argument and she told him that if he did not come home that night she would not let him in when he did arrive. When he returned, she said, she had his clothing ready for him to take away.

He struck her once, she said, and once threatened to kill her and remarked he "didn't know why he didn't finish the job."

FALL RIVER PLANT SOLD

FALL RIVER, Feb. 25 (AP)—Mayor Alexander Murray signed an agreement in New York today to sell the city-owned Stafford mills to a Massachusetts corporation yet to be organized. The plant will be used to manufacture machine guns and rifles and approximately 5000 persons will be employed.

Unusual Run of 'Unusual Weather' Irks California

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Californians, who as a rule are mighty proud of their weather, are getting a bit fed up with an unusual run of "unusual weather."

"Unusual weather" is the Californian term for rain, cold, fog, gales—any weather except the glorious California sunshine.—Editor's Note.

The weather has been unusual for two solid months of rain; not every day, but often enough to be the wettest winter in 25 years.

The rains started in mid-December, just as Californians were wondering if it ever was going to rain again.

Since then, the state's rainfall, including the ascertained climate of Imperial Valley and damp wooded northern section of the state, averaged 18.81 inches to the end of January, and an estimated six inches since.

Brennan Denies He's Battler, Pays Tribute to Suing Wife

It was pretty exhausting to hear Atty. Walter E. McLaughlin's cross-examination today in Middlesex Probate Court when he had husky John M. Brennan, Cambridge contractor, on the stand with the contractor opposing Mrs. Emma L. Brennan's divorce suit.

'GLAMOUR NOT FILM-MADE'

ELISSA LANDI, former Hollywood film actress, comes to Boston for a University Extension Course lecture at the State House . . . and is pictured at the Copley Plaza going over her script. Questioned about Hollywood's so-called glamour, Miss Landi said, "Real glamour is inborn . . . and can't be manufactured, try as Hollywood will." Boston Evening American Photo

And if one and all present resolved never to try a handshake with Brennan it was because of his own description of a little greeting in the Hotel Continental in Cambridge—and specifically the awful results for Max Berger.

Mrs. Brennan charges her contractor with cruel and abusive treatment, and in her testimony last week estimated that he punched her about 100 times in their nine marital years.

But today Brennan modestly averred that he was a calm and mild person, although his wife was somewhat inclined to tantrums.

DOG CATCHER ENTERS CASE

So Atty. McLaughlin flexed himself carefully and got down to business in this matter, starting with the case of one Mr. Nevins, the official dog officer in Cambridge.

Contractor Brennan had said musingly that he never chased Nevins out of the yard with a piece of iron pipe and that if Mr. Nevins got into some trouble with his eye it was when he ran into the bushes and forgot to duck.

Q—Didn't you kick him in the eye when Mr. Nevins had his glasses on? A—No! Nevins fell down and cut his eye.

Q—Did you assault and beat a Max Berger in the lobby of the Hotel Continental? A—No.

Q—Didn't you pull the chandeliers down in the hotel lobby? A—I don't remember that.

'SPUN HIM AROUND'

Q—Did you throw him on the floor and kick him? A—No. Do you want me to tell you what happened?

Q—Yes. A—Well, there were three or four fellows in the lobby of the hotel. Berger and I shook hands. I squeezed his hand and I spun him around. The floor was slippery, like a dance hall floor, and he slid along the floor and then slid down the stairs and got hurt. The reason I skidded him along the floor was he bit my hand when I squeezed his too hard. It was an accident.

Q—Well, you were drinking that night, weren't you? A—I had a few.

Q—Do you remember the time you threw Capt. Welch of the Cambridge police department into a tub of mortar? A—No.

INCIDENT RULED OUT

Q—Yes, you do. You remember Capt. Welch, when you were constructing a building up there. You threw him in a tub of mortar. A—Me? No. When was that?

There was a little colloquy here and when it developed that this incident—if there had been such an incident—occurred 15 or 20 years ago, Judge Arthur S. Beane said he guessed it was too remote.

"Well," continued Atty. McLaughlin, warming up again, "you remember on July 15, 1933, when you pulled a truck driver off his truck and beat him up and afterward appeared in district court in East Cambridge charged with assault and battery? You remember Thomas J. Maroney?"

"I don't remember that name,"

MISS FLORIDA — Blonde, streamlined and just 19, Mitzi Strother of Miami poses prettily with her trophy after being chosen as Miss Florida, 1941, at Coral Gables. She'll compete for Miss America title this year.

replied Brennan thoughtfully. Then he brightened. "Oh, that was a hot carrier's delegate. He wasn't a truck driver. I didn't pull him off a truck. That was a labor dispute over some bricks. Sure! That took place near McSorley's garage in Cambridge."

Q—Well, you remember appearing in court, don't you? A—Oh yes! We went to court, but there was nothing to it. Just a little conference. It didn't amount to anything.

Q—Did you beat up Tom Loughan in Harvard sq? A—No.

Q—Ever have a row with him over a bill he owed you, and a public fight in which you blacked his eye—and after doing that, do you remember taking him by the nape of the neck into the Cambridge Savings Bank and making him sign a check for you? A—No, I didn't do that. I didn't beat him up.

"SHIRTS ARE CHEAP"

Q—Do you remember throwing a typewriter out a second floor window and it landing on the head of Bill Cutler—when you were drinking? You put him in the hospital for six weeks? A—No.

Q—You have a calm, even disposition, haven't you? A—Yes, calm and agreeable.

Q—Did you ever kick your wife? A—No.

Q—You're not the kind of a fellow who would kick his wife, are you? A—No.

Brennan here interjected that Mrs. Brennan made him a fine wife.

Q—Well, you wouldn't want to go back and live with a hysterical woman, would you? A—There are worse things than that. She didn't drink and she's respectable.

Q—Still you want to go back and live with a woman who tears your shirts off your back? A—Well, shirts are cheap.

Boston-born Edward J. O'Brien, famous for his annual volumes of the "best short stories," died at his Gerrards Cross, Buckinghamshire, Eng. home, press dispatches reported today.

F. D. FAVORS WIRE-TAPPING TO NAB SPIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he favored using wiretapping against aliens and "traitors" who engage in "espionage or sabotage against the United States."

His statement was in a letter to Rep. Elton D. Masachusetts, member of the House judiciary committee which is studying wiretapping legislation. Eliot made the letter public.

Mr. Roosevelt said a pending bill by Rep. Hobbs (D.) of Alabama, "goes entirely too far" and contains provisions "unnecessarily broad" in that it would permit the head of any executive department of the federal government to authorize his investigators to tap wires provided he believed a felony had been or was about to be committed.

Mr. Roosevelt said the only "domestic" crime in connection with which wiretapping might be desirable was "kidnaping and extortion in the federal sense."

Man and Wife Owe $554,028

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Chalatzky of Broad st., Lyne, today formally announced to their numerous creditors that they were bankrupt to the extent of much better than half a million dollars.

Chalatzky filed a petition in federal court listing his liabilities as $569,395, with assets $102. Mrs. Chalatzky deposited that she owed $184,723 and had no assets.

The husband, who stated he was in the real estate business, said that $13,555 was due on real estate mortgages, but on the other hand noted that 34 creditors were awaiting payment of unsecured claims of $55,155 for deficits on mortgage notes, taxes and water notes, promissory notes and checks.

Mrs. Chalatzky, signing herself as a housewife, gave her secured claims as $163,978, also on real estate mortgages. She said she had 48 creditors who wanted $20,145 for the divorce items similar to those her husband's papers explained.

Woe for Him In Joy Ride

Joseph F. Wagner, 35, of Moras ave., Brookline, today garage employee who loaded up a customer's car with gas, helped himself to $20 from the garage till and headed for a good time in New York, found in Brighton today that such an escape is costly.

Wagner pleaded guilty to using a car without authority and larceny of $20. It was testified he was arrested on a call from his wife when he headed home after cutting his tour short at Worcester. He told the court he ran out of gas and abandoned the car along the turnpike.

On promise of restitution, Judge Thomas H. Connolly placed Wagner under one-year probation on the larceny charge, and continued the other charge for three months pending examination of the auto.

Boy Quad in Battle To Survive Bad Heart

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 25—While residents figuratively opened their hearts to the Lasley quadruplets, physicians today were concerned literally over the heart of one of them—the precious mite named John.

Physicians at City Hospital said an X-ray showed the infant possibly had a congenital heart, but added that if he had he might outgrow it.

John, the only boy, had difficulty breathing after his arrival by ambulance from Leitchfield. In the latest hospital bulletin the baby is reported "much better," however. Twice oxygen was administered.

Meanwhile, Beulah—the first of the quads to arrive under conditions similar to the case of the Canadian Dionnes—also was showing improvement after being reported ill.

As for the other two girls, Martine and Mildred, and the 12-year-old mother—doctors said they're in "fine" condition.

Dr. John C. Tucker of Leitchfield, who had arrived in time to be present at the birth of three of them, Mildred, John and Martine, was spending most of his time at City Hospital watching his young charges through the glass-enclosed ward.

At Leitchfield, county seat of Grayson, about 80 miles south of Louisville, the father, Porter Lasley, 44, qualified before County Judge C. L. Bratcher as legal guardian for the quadruplets.

Ashland Power Cut By Steam Shovel

ASHLAND, Feb. 25—A giant steam shovel today was blamed for a mishap which left the town without electric power.

Hundreds of residents telephoned fire and police departments when their power went dead. It was discovered that the steam shovel, making repairs on Home ave., had accidentally ripped up a conduit carrying electric cables. Repairs were completed in a half hour.

SUICIDE OF MALDEN NAVAL OFFICER HINTED

His last letter home told of his elation at getting word he was to be promoted to a captaincy in the U. S. Naval Dental Corps, but dispatches from Washington today said that the "sudden death" of Comdr. Philip Hutchinson MacInnis, 47, of Malden, was under investigation as a possible suicide.

Comdr. MacInnis, attached to the airplane carrier, U. S. S. Wasp, was found with a bullet hole in his head and a revolver close to the body last Thursday. Navy authorities stated. The Wasp was "somewhere in the Caribbean" at the time.

Comdr. MacInnis will be buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

The dead officer was one of a Malden family of four brothers and one sister, children of Mrs. Carrie L. and the late Nathaniel P. MacInnis. He was married and had two sons, Philip H. Jr., and Derek, now with his widow at Norfolk, Va.

One of Commander MacInnis' brothers is Harold E., vice-president of the Malden Trust Co.; another is Norman P., assistant treasurer of the Malden Co-operative Bank, and the third is Herbert H., sales manager of Melrose. His sister is Mrs. Elliott J. Canty of Reading.

HERO MADE ADMIRAL

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Capt. D. W. Boyd, commander of the aircraft carrier Illustrious, damaged in a German dive bombing attack in the Mediterranean last month, was promoted today to rear admiral.

Baby Farm Woman Is Put on Probation

Because the state did not wish to see the woman "punished," but wanted to use her case as a warning, Mrs. Mary E. Watson of Glenwood ave., Hyde Park, was placed under two years probation today after admitting a baby boarding house laws.

Mrs. Watson was in West Roxbury court on two charges—failing to notify the State Public Welfare Dept. she was keeping two or more infants, and failing to secure a license.

Miss Mary T. McCann, inspector for the Child Guardianship Division, testified that she had found six infants in the Watson home and two other children between the ages of 2 and 4. For each, the court was told, Mrs. Watson received $5 a week board.

On her arrival, said Miss McCann, she found that four of the infants had whooping cough, one had chicken pox and one was in good health. She added, however, that the house was well-kept and clean.

Counsel for Mrs. Watson explained that his client had since sent the healthy infant home to its parents and would do the same with the others as soon as the contagious disease quarantine was lifted.

Judge Daniel W. Casey asked Miss McCann's recommendation for a sentence and she explained that she wanted a sentence that "would stop this practice of boarding babies and children" rather than punish the defendant. Mrs. Watson has four larger children of her own.

CHIEF JUSTICE TELLS WHY HE SOUGHT AID

Five of the six special justices of the central municipal court were not available for service the day he filed a bill seeking to allow Boston to "borrow" justices from outside districts, Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam declared today.

The chief justice was being questioned by City Councilor William F. Hurley of Roxbury, member of the council committee on appropriations, now holding hearings on the proposed 1941 budget.

"Weren't you at the State House recently trying to arrange to bring in outside justices for your court?" Councilor Hurley asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "Why?" demanded Hurley. "I'd be delighted to tell you," was Chief Justice Putnam's answer.

4 TELL I ON HONEYMOON

"When I filed that bill five of the six special justices were unavailable for service."

"Judge (Abraham K.) Cohen was in the hospital. Judge (John G.) Brackett was at home with the 'flu.' Judge (Frank J.) Burke had a serious case of coronary thrombosis and is still more or less an invalid. Judge (Leo P.) Doherty was either in Florida or Cuba then. I understand he was on a honeymoon."

"Judge (Jacob) Spiegel was ill at the home of friends. He had the 'flu' and left his hotel in order to get more attention. I filed that bill."

OTHERS BORROW JUSTICES

"All of the other 72 districts of the Commonwealth may borrow special justices. I simply asked to extend that system to our court."

"The committee reported adversely. I am content. Some of the judges are now available."

"Is Judge Burke well now?" Hurley inquired.

"There are other matters pending between Judge Burke and myself which make him at the moment ineligible for service," replied Chief Justice Putnam, "but Judge Burke and I understand each other thoroughly."

Driver Missing In Truck Crash

Newton police are searching for a 16-ton trailer truck driver missing since this morning when the truck veered off Washington st., Newton Lower Falls, and smashed into a newly-built house.

Belief that the driver, James O'Connor, 45, of River st., Cambridge, may have been dazed by the impact, set parties searching gravel pits in the neighborhood. O'Connor, according to the Seaboard Freight Lines, Inc., left Boston for New York this morning.

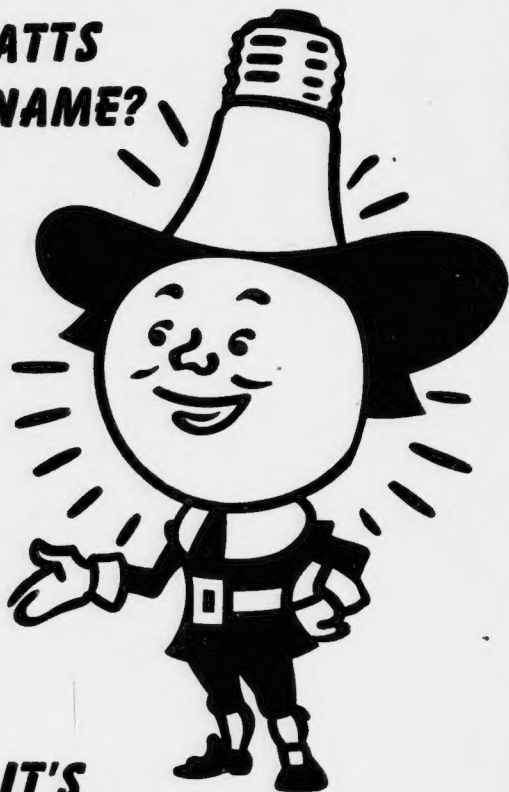

Axe Flies as Wagon Hits Tree and Stabs Him in Back

HARRISON, Ark., Feb. 25 (AP)—An axe sailed from a wagon and stabbed Ted Jones, 21, in the back.

It occurred yesterday when a team of horses ran away with Jones as he was driving along a rural road.

The horses stopped suddenly when the wagon crashed into a post. The impact flung the axe into the air. The blade struck Jones in the back, cutting him severely.

Candy Tossed Into River

On calls from motorists that a truck was being hijacked in the middle of the Harvard bridge, Cambridge and Boston police rushed carloads of officers there this noon.

They found a traffic jam and a disconsolate candy truck driver, without keys to his engine and bemoaning the loss of three boxes of candy that were tossed into Charles river.

The driver, Raymond J. Collins, 31, of Wells ave., Dorchester, told police that he was a strike-breaker.

He said two cars forced his truck the curb and that a dozen men seized him. They threw three boxes of candy over the rail and then drove off with his keys in the direction of Boston.

Solons Plan Secret Pay Boost Parley to Outwit Saltonstall

Determined to outwit Gov. Saltonstall on the salary issue, Republicans and Democrats seeking pay boosts have planned a secret meeting to discuss their problem, it was reported today.

It was learned that proponents for an extra $1000 and $500 for expenses during the biennial session want to bring the issue up at once before they act on other business.

Apparently they remember the last minute action two years ago, when Gov. Saltonstall vetoed a raise for them and they could not muster enough votes to pass it over his veto.

GOVERNOR SILENT

The governor has remained silent on the issue, but those close to him declare that he will favor no more than the $500 expense measure. He is said to be against increasing the budget by $320,000 necessary to pass out $1500 apiece.

Meanwhile, the legislative committee on state administration considered the suggestion that a three-member board be established to guide the legislature in setting license fees and taxation scales for horse and dog racing.

KELLY PROTESTS

The Senate vote in accepting an adverse committee report on proposals for a state lottery brought another protest today from former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly. In a telegram to Senate President Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose, Kelly said:

"Yesterday you ignored my request in behalf of aged people of state to have recall of Senate on important revenue producing state operated lottery upon which you and 29 fellow Senators were specifically instructed by vote of 805,000 to 325,000.

"People of state are shocked with manner you railroaded six lottery bills, (including mine), to defeat in exactly 36 seconds, without debate or even rising vote.

"Respectfully request that you debate with me the merits, as well as your action, on this important public question. I will pay all expenses of radio or public hall.

"If you fail to accept this invitation, you may substitute any of other 29 Senators similarly instructed. The public awaits your answer."

TAX BOOST ASKED

Before the legislative taxation committee, State Tax Comm. Henry F. Long proposed a boost in the personal income tax from 1½ to 2½ per cent, with lowering of exemptions to $500 for single and $1500 for married persons. Rep. George W. Porter of Agawam supported Long.

Thomas M. Joyce, legislative agent for the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Association; Richard M. Bradley, of the Taxpayers Alliance, and Robert Cutler, for Mayor Tobin, supported a bill to levy a 1 per cent tax on gross earned income.

Before the same committee, Joyce proposed that it sit as a special recess commission to consider all tax proposals with a view to finding sufficient revenue to take the welfare load off of real estate owners.

SOLONS HEAR DOCTORS

The Committee on Public Health heard several prominent Boston physicians and educators advocate bills designed to raise the standard of examinations for those desiring to practice medicine in the state, the committee being told that "Massachusetts probably has the lowest standard in the United States."

Both industry and organized labor, before the committee on labor and industry, advocated suspension for another two years of the Massachusetts six o'clock law barring employment to women in textile plants after that hour. Defense work was one of the reasons cited why the law should remain suspended.

Meanwhile, Reps. Lawrence P. McHugh and Enrico Cappuccini, Boston Democrats, filed a bill "to protect the public" through supervision by the State Racing Commission of all persons connected with horse racing.

In a statement, the bill's sponsors declared the measure, covering jockeys, trainers and stable employees, is designed "to protect the public from the doping and race-fixing such as has been uncovered in California."

Another bill, filed by Sen. David W. Brackman of Boston, calls for abolishing the board of bar examiners and replacing it with a board of law examiners to consist of seven members.

Maine Boy Amnesia Victim in Yuma, Ariz.

Parents of Hale P. Tukey, 19, student at a West End dramatic school, hurried from Damariscotta, Me., to Yuma, Ariz., today after receiving word that their missing son was an amnesia victim in a Yuma hospital.

Tukey vanished from his Beacon Hill apartment more than a month ago and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Tukey, had directed a nation-wide search.

Weaker Liquors Proposed by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)

The Treasury proposed today to legalize weaker brands of whiskey, brandy, rum and gin.

A hearing was called for March 18 on the proposal to reduce the minimum proof of these liquors from 80 to 60 per cent.

At the same time, testimony will be taken on labeling proposals intended to prevent any tie-up between liquor and the defense program.

The Treasury wants to outlaw all pictures or drawings of soldiers, sailors, flags, forts, battle-ships or other insignia of war on liquor labels.

MAN SEIZED AT DIVORCEE'S TAX HEARING

Hearing in the case of Mrs. Devla Irene Leary Wentworth, 35, charged with possessing cigarettes with intent to sell without a license, was deferred today in Brighton court when her alleged companion in evading cigarette taxes was arrested on the courthouse steps.

Arnold Alford, 25, of Walnut ave., Revere, was taken into custody by George Murphy and John Daunt, representatives of the state tax collector's office, and charged with failing to pay $5000 in taxes on 5,000,000 cigarettes.

According to the tax agents they had sought Alford since last September. He was taken to Charles st. jail.

Meanwhile the case of Mrs. Wentworth was called in Brighton court and again continued until March 11, bail of $100 standing.

The 35-year-old divorcee, who has had a spectacular career, including a $50,000 suit against her ex-husband and a fall from a fourth-story window during a "repeal party," was arrested while allegedly sitting in the car of a man who had been trailed from Maine to Brighton.

Three of State Tax Comm. Henry F. Long's agents declared she had entered the car after the man, now said to have been Alford, entered a drugstore.

In the car many cartons of cigarettes, bought in Maine and carried here without payment of 2-cent tax on each pack, according to the charges, were found.

Pensions at 60 Urged on F. D.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Rep. Oliver (R.) of Maine has urged President Roosevelt to lend his influence to obtain amendment of the Social Security Act so "flat federal pensions may be paid without any 'needs' test to all persons over 60 years of age."

"I feel there is sentiment in this Congress to do something along this line and I believe if that can be crystallized through a request from the President the chances of favorable congressional action are excellent," Oliver said after making public his letter to Mr. Roosevelt.

"It is my sincere belief the present and future very existence of millions of United States citizens now over 60 years of age and those who hereafter attain that age relies almost entirely on your present action," Oliver wrote.

CIO VOTES STRIKE IN THREE MORE BETHLEHEM PLANTS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—A CIO steel workers official said today union members at three more Bethlehem Steel Co. plants have voted to strike unless the firm consents to a collective bargaining agent election and settles "many grievances."

John Riffe, first assistant to Van A. Bittner, western regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, asserted workers at Bethlehem, Johnstown and Pottstown, Pa., authorized a strike at meetings last night—24 hours after similar action by Lackawanna, N. Y., union employees.

Lackawanna union members of the Bethlehem Company, which has millions of dollars in defense orders and employs 14,000 planned to meet today to formulate steps effectuating their strike vote.

Riffe estimated approximately 35,000 workers at the three Pennsylvania plants are SWOC members.

Meanwhile, Bittner, director of the SWOC's drive to organize Bethlehem's extensive steel enterprises, sought a conference in Washington with Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management.

Bittner said he would outline the Lackawanna situation to defense authorities in an effort to gain government aid in settling the dispute, which started after what the union calls "lockouts." The parent concern has an estimated $1,500,000 in defense contracts.

IF A CRISIS COMES...do you think a small piece of land would give you SECURITY?

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING presents an impartial, nationwide survey of this question; now uppermost in the minds of many Americans . . . An article prepared especially for families who live in the city.

Have you ever thought, while reading today's headlines, "If or wrecks cities—but the land remains"? Have you ever heard your husband say, "Someday I'd like to own a piece of land. I'll bet I could make it pay . . . if you'd help"?

Would you like to know what all this really adds up to for city folk who live in places like New York, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Denver or Atlanta? Then don't miss Milton Mackaye's impartial report in this month's GOOD HOUSEKEEPING. His findings, based on a special nationwide investigation, have been checked by the Government. He tells you what to look for when buying land—how much a good cow costs—why chicken farming is one of the "mantraps for metropolitan optimists"—and where to write for answers to all the other questions we could not give him space to answer. You'll know what you'll have to do to make your dreams come true when you've read—"DO YOU WANT TO OWN A SMALL PIECE OF LAND FOR YOUR SECURITY?" BY MILTON MACKAYE.

Airline Hostesses have to be able to TAKE IT!

Maybe that's why Althea, who was 125 lbs. of blonde, uniformed cuteness, wanted a man who could take it, too! "When I marry," she said, "I want a man who'll FIGHT for me". . . That was before the night when Steve broke the bank robber's jaw in—"LOVE IS WHAT YOU FIGHT FOR" BY VIRGINIA SULLIVAN TOMLINSON.

THE MAGAZINE

writes an important story about a man who tried to escape from life because he felt too insecure to meet it!

REMEMBER when the great satirist, Sinclair Lewis, took apart "Main Street" and life in the Middle West? Remember the kind of man that Habbitt was?—and Elmer Gantry?

Well, this time, Sinclair Lewis takes apart a big-city man, Russell Spinrad—lawyer, commuter, owner of "a house that was a very fine miniature of Windsor Castle" in a New York suburb! Russell Spinrad, at 47, "remained, inside him, a college cheerleader, who sang a little, practiced law a little and drank a good deal more than that." Russell Spinrad invented a new way to escape the penalty of the life he was leading. What that way was and how it worked out for his wife and family is what makes dramatic reading in—"THE MAN WHO CHEATED TIME"

Did you know FAITH BALDWIN could write a story like this?

Roberta's was the sophisticated world of the stage; his world was a little Middle-Western town. But where he went, she wanted to go. Where he lived, she wanted to live. His love, his town, his way of life was what she had always wanted. His people would be her people. Sometimes a woman is like that . . . Then she is Ruth, in the Bible—or she is Roberta in—"HER OWN PEOPLE" BY FAITH BALDWIN.

What's Spring? Spring, to "Bidge," was Andy Morrison seen through a golden mist

"Bidge" was thirteen. "Bidge" felt funny and gay and hauntingly sad. "Bidge" was misunderstood and it was pretty awful to have a father like Mr. Newcome . . . Or was it? You'll have to read this deft, delicately etched little story and make up your own mind about Dad. . . Just the way Bridget has to, in—"THE SHAPE OF CANDOR" BY ELIZABETH DUNN.

Men know there's danger in "the other woman," but . . .

sometimes a man's wife—well, she wants to be "popular" again. She wants to recapture that wonderful, wonderful time when the world was her shiny, red apple. She has love, but she wants, mixed in, just a little freedom, too. Edith starts out that way. Edith changes her mind in—"NO MAN IS A SAINT" BY RUTH LYONS.

A tiny diamond—1/32 of a carat—was worth $100 per carat, wholesale, in 1939 . . . is now worth $250 per carat, wholesale. Why? SENATE O. K.'S GUAM, SAMOA DEFENSE JOBS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Acting at top speed the Senate naval affairs committee approved today a $242,373,500 authorization for improvements at the islands of Guam and Samoa, Pacific ocean outposts near Japan. The legislation passed the House last week.

Favorable action came after an executive session at which Admiral Ben Morell, Navy Department spokesman, declared that the improvements at Guam and Samoa and of numerous naval bases acquired from England were "absolutely vital to the defense of the United States."

Senator Gillette (D.) of Iowa one of the first Senators to emerge from the committee's closed session, said committee action on all the projects was unanimous.

Before the committee's action Morell testified that the $470,000 authorization in the bill for Guam, located about 1300 miles from Japan, was not intended for fortification or establishment of submarine or air bases.

He said that the funds merely provide for clearing nearby water or coral-heads, construction of a breakwater, and bomb-proofing power plants, shelters and communication centers.

An authorization of $8,100,000 for Samoa, some 3000 miles south of Guam, Morell added, would establish an air base there which could handle "one squadron (12) of amphibian planes."

Pastor Indicted As Draft Evader

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted the Rev. Allen Clay Lambert, pastor of the Sinking Valley United Lutheran Church near Altoona, Pa., on charges of draft evasion.

The 34-year-old father of three children announced from his pulpit his intention to refuse to register for training, declaring he conceived "selective training to be out of harmony with my understanding of the will and word of God."

"I Talked with God"

(Yes, I Did — Actually and Literally)

and as a result of that little talk with God some ten years ago, a strange Power came into my life. After 42 years of horrible, sickening, dismal failure and despair, everything took on a brighter hue. It's fascinating to talk with God, and it can be done very easily once you learn how. And when you do, well, there will come into your life the same dynamic Power which came into mine. The shackles of defeat which had bound me for years went a-shimmering — and now?—well—I own control of the largest circulating daily newspaper in my County. I own the largest office building in my City. I own my own home which has a lovely pipe organ in it, and my family are abundantly provided for after I'm gone. And all this has been made possible because one day, ten years ago, I talked with God. Actually and literally talked with God.

You, too, may experience that strange Power which comes from talking with God, and when you do,

Leak Through Japan Hits British Blockade

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Britain's blockade of Germany is "fully as effective" now as it was before the Nazi invasion of the low countries last spring, economic warfare experts declared today.

Supplies of the occupied nations have been exhausted, said these British informants, and Germany "already is feeling a pinch in oil, cotton, copper, rubber and nickel, despite a major leak through Japan."

An increasing amount of products of small bulk, but high value, these sources said, is passing through Japan from South America and the United States, across the Yellow sea to Port Arthur and Dairen, and thence by rail through Manchukuo to the junction with the Trans-Siberian Railway at Chita.

U. S. EXPORTS AID NAZIS

The leak has been swelled, they declared, by exports of United States manufactures from the Philippines to Japan.

"These, for various reasons, do not come under United States licensing restrictions," the economists said.

They declared the powerful Japanese Mitsui and Mitsubishi shipping companies "handle the bulk of this trade for German agents."

Germany's economic position was described as "steadily worsening."

"Masses of industrial materials were sent into Germany from conquered countries last summer when the high command believed the war was nearly over," one expert said.

"Now Germany is faced with the problem: Shall the materials be returned to the countries and the people put to work, or shall it be sent to Poland or some relatively safe area for use in new factories?"

Either course would be helpful to Britain, it added.

TRANSPORT PROBLEM

Movement of the raw materials would involve an immense transport problem at a time when transport is needed for the military. If they are sent into Poland, the expert said, whole towns in heavily industrialized northern France and Belgium would be left idle.

Germany, it was indicated, at present is relying almost wholly upon Rumanian oil and gasoline and synthetic substitutes.

The experts said, however, they did not believe any shortage of oil would halt German plans for offensive action against the British Isles this spring.

"Indeed, that shortage probably will spur them on," said one. "They will feel the pinch in the fall much harder than now, and we know they are feeling it already."

Surprisingly, coal was named as one commodity in which Germany is "short." The Germans formerly imported Belgian, British and French coal by cheap water routes.

"These shipments are, of course, cut off, and the Germans have rationed coal heavily to save rail and road transport," an expert asserted. "Even German-mined coal has been rationed."

Order Hints Hitler Drive

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—German soldiers stationed in Norway who are vacationing in Germany were notified today to advise nearest military headquarters as to the date they are due back at post.

Informed sources explained there was a possibility of terminating vacations in connection with Hitler's spring offensive.

How the Norwegian garrisons fit into that picture except as defenders of the occupied area against a counter-attack remained open to question. At the same time it was recalled that while the landing of troops in England has frequently been discussed, Hitler himself has never openly been committed to that specific policy.

In yesterday's speech at Munich he did not mention a land invasion and in a previous speech he merely warned the British that the Germans were "coming."

What? Hitler To Invite More Jibes—Collect?

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Americans who failed to take advantage of the German propaganda ministry's offer last week to accept collect messages for radio request numbers may have another opportunity.

"It is not impossible," authorized sources said today, "that the stunt may be tried again."

They said about 5000 telegrams were received up to Saturday midnight. Only about 15 per cent of the telegrams were frivolous, it was claimed.

Messages, they said, included requests for information on Hitler Youth, the gold standard, Max Schmeling and the possibilities of a German invasion of the United States through South America. Most were described as "earnest."

NAZIS BOOST BRITISH SHIP LOSS GUESS

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Germany's navy sank approximately 250,000 tons of shipping space in a two-day sea offensive on Britain, DNB (official German news agency) said today.

The agency said the figures were based on latest reports to general headquarters, which permitted an upward revision of its estimate yesterday that 217,300 tons of British shipping had been sunk in two days.

Adolf Hitler, in his speech at Munich, had put the total at 215,000 tons.

Nazi planes were reported to have sunk one troop transport of 3000-4000 tons and set a 15,000-ton transport afire Sunday evening off the North Atlantic coast.

The larger transport was said to have been damaged heavily.

Replying to British denials of Hitler's statement, authorized Germans declared that "at the proper time" the names and tonnage of the ships would be disclosed.

Several large transoceanic steamers were said to have been in a convoy "co-operatively attacked by submarines which were credited with destroying 190,000 tons of the 253,000-ton total."

British Say Nazis Sank 37,636 Tons in Week

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Twelve British and Allied merchant ships totaling 37,636 tons were sunk during the week ended Feb. 18, compared with 29,806 tons the previous week, the Admiralty reported today.

An Admiralty statement said: "The losses include five vessels, four British and one Allied, totaling 23,886 tons known to have been sunk by the raider which attacked a convoy off the Azores on Feb. 15."

Following its usual practice of making announcements and claims before there had been any opportunity to check facts, the German high command announced Feb. 14 that in this attack a German raider had sunk 14 ships totalling 82,000 tons.

"The facts are that of 19 ships in the convoy, 10 are known to be safe and four others (three British and one Allied) totalling 19,696 tons aren't yet overdue."

KING ADMITS BULGARS CAN'T STOP NAZIS

By GEORGE BALINT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BUDAPEST, Feb. 23. King Boris of Bulgaria today admitted his country's inability to resist German occupation.

While reports in Budapest said the Germans would carry out a "cold" seizure of vital airports and communications centers, Boris received 12 opposition political leaders and frankly confessed little could be done.

He continued to hold out hope that peace and neutrality could be preserved. But he was obviously pessimistic over possible reprisals by Great Britain and Turkey if the German military machine takes over his country.

Sofia authorities clamped down the tightest censorship in the city's history. But reports trickling through told of Boris' dramatic meeting with the political leaders, new military preparations by the Bulgarian high command and a growing exodus of foreign residents.

All automobiles were forbidden to leave the capital because they might be needed by the army. News bulletins issued by the British legation were banned.

Dutch and Polish residents, including ministers and their staffs left, accompanied by British women and children. British Minister George Rendel and his staff remained for the present.

Possibility of war conditions resulting from the anticipated German occupation was brought home to the populace by an all-night blackout.

ated that "their heavy weapons were all lost."

"I do not imagine they kept a record of what they abandoned," Stimson said, "but I know that they returned without any trucks, without any field guns, though, of course, some men had saved their rifles. I think a large percentage were without rifles. In other words, their heavy weapons were all lost."

The Secretary also advised the committee that the strength of the Army Air Corps is now approximately 4000 planes, says the Associated Press.

Stimson's testimony before an executive session of the Senate group was made available today by committee members after the war secretary had reviewed the transcript and deleted several passages, presumably because of the confidential character of the information involved. The testimony was given during hearings on the British aid bill.

HALF TACTICAL

The regular army air corps, Stimson testified, now has approximately 3700 planes and the National Guard about 300. Slightly less than half are tactical planes, bombers and fighters, he said. The remainder were classified as trainers. In the course of his testimony, Stimson reported that Great Britain considered her ground defense against aircraft to be "in excellent condition without any help from us."

One British anti-aircraft gun, he indicated, had created a very favorable impression on American technical experts and might be adopted for use by the United States armed forces.

Discussing U. S. air strength, Stimson testified that thus far 1650 of the 3200 Army planes authorized in 1939 have been delivered. He said that deliveries during the last two years have totaled 2301 planes, of which 953 were combat ships and 1343 were training planes.

Delivery of combat planes, he said, had been held up to some extent "because of necessary changes arising out of lessons learned last summer in the European war." He said deliveries of training planes were ahead of schedule.

The secretary told the committee at one point that this country had sold no anti-aircraft guns "to the British or any other country."

Britain's output of anti-aircraft guns is ahead of that in this country, Stimson said, adding that "they have one gun which they have produced and which we think we are going to be very glad to get."

Ex-Gov. Nice, Maryland, Dies

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 23 (AP)—Former Governor Harry W. Nice of Maryland died at 5 a. m. today of a heart attack while visiting friends in Richmond. He was 63 years old.

Governor and Mrs. Nice arrived here yesterday, en route from Florida to Baltimore by automobile.

Nice, third Republican Governor in Maryland's history, served a four-year term ending in 1923. He sought re-election, but was defeated by Hubert O'Connor.

After resuming his law practice in Baltimore, Nice attempted a political comeback, opposing U. S. Sen. George L. Radcliffe in last fall's election. Radcliffe won by a wide margin.

Fight to Finish, Greeks' Reply

ATHENS, Feb. 23 (AP)—Greece is determined to carry on the fight against Mussolini's legions "until the Italians are out of Albania," a government spokesman said today.

That formal statement of the Greek army battle cry, "drive the Italians into the sea," was the first hint from Athens on the possible Greek attitude toward reported Nazi pressure to come to a quick truce with Italy or risk German onslaught.

The statement came as a detailed reply to Premier Mussolini's speech in Rome Sunday, representing Greek losses as heavy and Italy's as "a few thousand, mostly wounded."

The spokesman said 20,000 Italians had been captured in nearly four months of fighting.

"Of the 20,000 prisoners," he added, "only 28 officers and 497 men are under treatment in our hospitals either for wounds or illness," he said.

"Our losses have not been serious, but rather slight."

Once upon a time in the long ago there was a prince enamored of a maid who lived over the border in another country, but the prince devised a way to hold her in his loving arms—and in doing so he got James W. Spencer of Brownville Junction, Me., into a pack of trouble today.

Whew! All in all, Spencer has had a pretty hard time of it, what with turning hairdresser for love (so he said) and the climax was capped today in federal court when he got three months for unlawfully concealing and harboring an alien. He pleaded guilty.

There was nothing in the old story of the police and his girlfriend about the royal idyll being shattered—at least not as far as James Spencer had read it.

But Spencer's romance, as related today in court, had no such concluding line as "And they lived happily ever afterward."

LOVE'S STRANGE ANTICS

The way the court heard it was that Spencer, 30-year-old telegraph operator, has a wife, Jeanette, and a child at Brownville but when he was in St. Stephen, N. B., last year he became fascinated by Miss Helen Powell, a hair dresser.

So fascinating was he, in fact, that he also became a hair dresser in a sort of extra-mural endeavor, and helped her business about by going from door to door and picking up a head of hair here and there to do, the profits being divided.

After Spencer had to come back across the line, the story went on in court, he pined for Miss Powell and cast about for means to bring her into the States, she being a citizen of Canada.

So it came to pass that finally he recalled the old story of the prince, and this was such a story as to make one's heart glad, especially James W. Spencer's.

LIVED IN BOSTON

The prince, it seemed, had sent two ladies with credentials across the border to the girl friend's country, and the girl friend returned as one of the original ladies, carrying the original lady's credentials. Princes think of everything.

So what a prince could do, a fast thinker like a telegraph operator could do, and James Spencer did, sending a couple of ladies across the international bridge, etc., etc.

For a while Spencer and Miss Powell lived in the West End of Boston, the court was told, but eventually she wanted to go back home and they fell out and when she insisted, he thought himself to be revenged upon her by reporting

Note Reveals Banting Crash

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (AP)—A brief message traced crudely in the snows of Newfoundland's east coast by the (one survivor of an airplane crash disclosed yesterday the death of Dr. Sir Frederick Grant Banting, 49, whose co-discovery of insulin meant life to countless diabetics.

Besides Sir Frederick, the dead were Navigator William Bird of Riddiminer, Eng., and William Snaitham of Bedford, Nova Scotia. The survivor was Joseph C. Mackey of Kansas City, pilot of the military plane which had set out Friday to take Dr. Banting to England on a wartime medical mission.

Advices received here said that Mackey, who was uninjured, was taken to Musgrave Harbor, Newfoundland, today by a rescue party. The bodies of Sir Frederick and the other victims were said to have reached Musgrave Harbor last night.

The plane apparently crashed Friday, but was not reported lost until Sunday night. It was found late yesterday by searching fliers who read Mackey's message of disaster.

MOROS IN BATTLE

MANILA, Feb. 25 (AP)—Two groups of fierce native Moros, involved in an unexplained feud, met near Set Lake on Jolo Island and fought with spears and barongs (knives). Seven were killed and three, including a woman, were badly wounded.

Hypnosis Ends Dual Life After 2 Years

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (INS)—A fully developed dual personality which turned a prosperous Paris, Ill., real estate man into a poverty stricken Arkansas peanut farmer was claimed to have been obliterated today through hypnosis.

The story, as reconstructed by Dr. Leo Kaplan of Cook County Psychopathic Hospital, started in the fall of 1933 when Howard Brown, carrying $700 which he had needed to conclude a business deal, got into his automobile with two strange men and began to drive to his office in Terre Haute, Ind., a few miles east of Paris.

That was the last seen of Brown for two years. His automobile was found in the Ohio river near Cincinnati. After a year passed his family asked that he be declared legally dead.

Months later, Brown, a struggling peanut farmer who could recall nothing of his past, heard the name "Lucy" spoken of at a Little Rock, Ark., street. The name puzzled him. He could not recall that it was the name of his sister, but he associated it with the name of Paris, Ill., and of Brown. He worried about the association so much that he wrote Lucy Brown in Paris, saying:

"I was on the street corner in Little Rock and I heard someone say the name 'Lucy.' That night I puzzled over things, and it seemed to me I recalled the name of Brown. And both names seemed linked to Paris, Ill. I don't suppose it means a thing, but if it does... Will you place an advertisement in the Little Rock paper?"

The letter was in Brown's handwriting.

RETURNED TO PARIS

Brown's family went to Little Rock, placed the advertisement and met Brown, a haggard, poorly clothed farmer. He failed to recognize either his wife or his son or daughter.

Returned to Paris, he was examined by physicians who said he was suffering "hysterical amnesia."

They advised that he undergo treatment by Dr. Kaplan in Chicago. Dr. Kaplan, using hypnotic treatment exclusively, restored memory to Brown, up to the point where he began to drive toward Cincinnati from Terre Haute.

At the same time, as the primary personality reasserted itself in his consciousness, the memory of his secondary personality, as the peanut farmer, faded.

Today Dr. Kaplan said Brown is back in Paris, recovering the weight and strength he lost during his two years of illness. He plans to resume his real estate business shortly.

15 Rail Unions Fight Pay Cut

RUTLAND, Vt., Feb. 25—Fifteen union brotherhoods today began their case against the Rutland railroad, which proposes a 20 to 30 per cent wage cut for 1300 employees, amounting to $350,000 in 1941.

The brotherhoods followed the railroad's receiver, Luis G. Murphy before an emergency board named by President Roosevelt to mediate the wage dispute.

The hearings were ordered by President Roosevelt to avert a strike by workers and the threat of railroad receivers to shut down operations if the strike was called.

with our love. Now she's dead. I want to be dead."

Flynn said Mrs. Rosetta, after taking the tablets, lay down on the bed and that he went downstairs to the basement kitchen.

"Before I went down, I left my gun on the dresser. I heard a shot and ran upstairs. I saw her bleeding from the temple. The gun was on the bed beside her. I grabbed the gun and ran out of the house because I was afraid I would be blamed for it," Flynn said, according to his questioners.

When Patrolmen Alfred Seavey and Leon Kidlon climbed to the roof of the two-story junk shop, they said Flynn, a truck driver, had in his possession a .33 caliber revolver, with one shell exploded. The numbers were rubbed off the weapon. He dropped the gun when ordered to do so by Seavey.

Flynn appeared to be helpless from liquor, they said, so they obtained a rope and lowered him to the street.

Lea Rosetta told police that when she came home she heard a noise like the buckfiring of an automobile. She found the front door locked and saw a man running from the rear door. She went to the Corea home, next door, to get help.

Mrs. Cecelia Rosetta, of Second st., mother-in-law of the victim, said Flynn had used a gun on previous occasions to frighten members of the family when they objected to his attentions to Edith.

The dead woman's husband, Pasquale Rosetta, said Flynn was a frequent visitor to his home but he did not suspect him of being interested in his wife.

Flynn was arrested in Chelsea on Oct. 30, 1939, on a charge of carrying a revolver and brass knuckles and was given two sentences of six months each to be served concurrently on the charges.

Your Daily Health Quiz

How Many Quarts of Blood Has the Average Person?

It is an accepted fact that normally we have 5 to 6 1/2 quarts of blood.

Although our blood constitutes about 1/12 of our body weight, and for all its smallness it is everywhere. When they feel tired or under the weather, they always blame it on something else. Actually, at the first sign of fatigue, lack of energy, strength, or when you feel yourself slipping physically, check up on your blood right away.

You know, if your blood is thin, pale and watery, and unable to feed the hungry tissues with life-giving oxygen, activity and disorder set in more quickly. But if blood is rich and pure, it contains chemical substances and is capable of repairing damaged body tissues and replenishing our strength and energy.

We don't take chances. Do something about your blood today. Get a bottle of Bonquet (pronounced Bon-Kyet) Tablets. Here is an amazing new discovery, by an eminent hematologist, that is designed to build rich red fighting blood. It contains, in concentrated quantities, the raw materials so severely lacking in the modern diet, and so urgently needed by the body tissues. . . the most important being the pure principle of raw liver (the red blood cell making factor), organic vegetable iron and other minerals, vitamin B complex, fortified with pure crystalline vitamins B and G, and assimilable calcium and phosphorus. This "liver principle" is sometimes called "liver extract."

Try Bonquet Tablets for 9 days. If you wish, before and after this test. If you don't feel better, look better, and have general all-around improvement . . . stop. If you do, show a marked increase in your red blood cell count . . . Your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Two sizes—$1.97 and $3.45. Mail orders sent postpaid. Bonquet Tablets are sold only at:

Real Mystery In Finding of 2 Bodies

MORGANTON, N. C., Feb. 25 (AP)—The body of a man, shot three times through the chest, was found last night on a road near here beside a burning automobile. Coroner Russell Green said was tentatively identified as belonging to Robert S. Divvins, 33, of Portsmouth, Va.

The body of a man identified as Divvins was found yesterday near Bowling Green, Va. He had been shot five times.

Green said the man found here was six feet tall, apparently about 33 years old, and had an artificial left foot. He said papers found on the body bore the names of Divvins and of Thaddeus Florckiewicz.

A .33 caliber pistol was beside the body. Bowling Green reports said a weapon of the same caliber was used in the shooting there. Divvins was identified as an employee of a small loan company. His mother lives in Uniontown, Pa.

Subway King's Stock Brings $1,060,000

Wall Street today reported that a block of 40,000 shares of Aetna Life Insurance Co. stock, understood to be from the estate of Patrick McGovern, so-called subway king, had been sold today for $1,060,000.

New York market quotations gave the selling price as 26 1/2 and said that the offering was oversubscribed. Putnam & Co. of New York city were the brokers.

McGovern, who came from Ireland to Boston nearly half a century ago as a penniless immigrant, died in New York in 1933, possessing a fortune of more than $3,000,000.

The Misses Anna and Eileen McGovern, his nieces, who lived in Pleasant Hill ave., Dorchester, were bequeathed legacies of $25,000 each. The balance of the estate went to the widow and three daughters.

SHORTAGE OF DRAFTEES REPORTED

A reported shortage of eligible man power in several Bay State districts faced local draft headquarters today with indications new quotas may have to be set to clear up the situation.

At the same time, draft officials disclosed plans for a "test run" of drafted rookies, under which inducted men, starting tomorrow and continuing through Friday, will be sent to Camp Edwards, instead of Fort Devens.

This, it was explained, is in preparation for the big job of processing 9100 men to fill the YD quota starting Saturday.

SHORTAGE REPORTED

The shortage of available man-power was specifically reported by the Belmont draft board, of which Judge Arthur P. Stone is chairman, but reports were that other boards were having considerable difficulty finding eligible men for the YD quota.

After disclosing that he was advised by telephone Friday to produce 120 more young Belmont men for the Army, Judge Stone declared in protest:

"We can't do it. For us to have 120 men ready by March 1 is impossible. I told the superiors at state headquarters that we could not do it, but would do everything in our power to send as many men as possible for induction on Saturday."

Judge Stone expressed belief that an error must have been made when draft headquarters on Feb. 17 notified the board that a new quota of 248 had been set for Belmont. Earlier, Belmont had been directed to expect a quota of 101 men, he said.

RUSH TO FILL QUOTA

The number requested from the Belmont board is four and five times the number asked from similar boards, he said.

Various local board officials also pointed out that they had received individual quotas in the fourth call, now in progress, but had not been officially advised in the YD call as to the number of men each Bay State community must furnish.

Youth is Held In Cop Beating

While Patrolman Edward J. Schofield, 24-year-old newcomer to Boston police ranks, was being treated at City Hospital for brain concussion today, at 20-year-old West End Youth was charged in Central Municipal Court with beating more or less the cause of it all.

Patrolman Ignatius Goode said that Carmine Sarno, of Boston at the defendant, had hit him in the back of the neck and when he arrested Sarno the trouble started. It happened in Nashua st., North End, near Boston Garden, where the fire department hall was held.

Schofield was set upon by a gang of hoodlums. Patrolman Goode said they were "Sarno's Gang." Police reinforcements finally broke it up after a warning shot was fired Sarno, pleading not guilty, was held in $1000 for a hearing March 5. Patrolman Schofield is recovering.

a way of extending the time limits on such grants.

He said the English historian, Gibbon, in writing of the fall of the Roman Empire, sought to explain to his readers why so many men who were wise and considerate administrators as long as their authority was held within rigid limitations became tyrants when clothed with dictatorial powers.

WHEN BRAIN CRACKS

"Gibbon holds," Shipstead continued, "and in my judgment the experience of mankind sustains him, that this thing we call the 'brain' literally 'cracks up' when its possessor is granted unrestricted authority over the wealth, the natural resources and the manpower of a great nation.

"In the light of history, no sane man would aspire to such power. He would instinctively question his ability to direct it. Obviously, no insane man should be given such power by an indifferent or nerveless Legislature, unless those who make the grant are willing to repeat the frightful tragedies which mark the advance of the human race from barbarism to civilization."

Shipstead argued the bill would permit the President to "dissipate" national defenses by transferring weapons to other countries.

CITES VAST POWERS

"The phrase we find in this bill—'country whose defense the President deems vital to the defense of the United States'—I firmly believe, the most monstrous legislative formula ever proposed in the Congress of the United States," he declared.

"I cannot see how any man in possession of his senses can construe this as anything other than a surrender by Congress for 27 months of all control over our armed forces, our foreign policy and our treasury, which, by the way, is to be subjected to the most complete totalitarian raid in our whole history."

Soon, he said, the financial burden will be so great that about one-half of the total cash income of the people of the country will go to meet taxes.

RAFS F. D. AND WILKIE

Recalling he had opposed American entry into war in 1917, Shipstead said he was re-elected last November on the platform which opposed American involvement in the present conflict.

President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee, also took positions against such involvement, he said, adding:

"And yet today we find the Congress of the United States—pushed on by those two distinguished party leaders—about to pass the pending bill, which every thoughtful man knows will almost inevitably put us into a world war so widespread and devastating as to make World War No. I appear like a mere prologue to Armageddon."

French Cabinet Shifts Aid Nazis

VICHY, France, Feb. 25 (AP)—Jacques Barraud was named by Chief of State Marshal Petain today to the new post of delegate general in charge of French-German negotiations following a Cabinet revision apparently designed to emphasize the economic phase of collaboration with the Reich.

The reorganization, revising the Cabinet system handed down from the republic, created five new all-powerful Cabinet ministers and a delegate—general for German-French negotiations who would "translate into facts the desire for collaboration."

Admiral Jean Darian, named vice-premier and president of the council of ministers Feb. 10, heads the new cabinet.

Subject to the authority of Marshal Philippe Petain, Darian will exercise powers equal to those of his predecessor, Pierre Laval, whose restoration to power has been said authoritatively to have been demanded by Germany.

While some observers saw the possibility that the new post of delegate-general for German negotiations was designed for Laval, it was noted that the delegate would be in direct contact primarily with the economic delegations of the armistice commissions.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 25 (AP)—Middle East headquarters of the RAF announced today attacks had been made upon the airbase at Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, and Italian military buildings near Tepelet in Albania.

"Another heavy attack was pressed home in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire against troops and transports at Dukarj. RAF bombers attacked the airbase at Addis Ababa. Considerable damage was done to air-drome buildings."

Nazis Doom 10 Norse as Spies

BERGEN, Norway (via Berlin), Feb. 25 (AP)—A German military court today sentenced 10 Norwegians to death and imposed prison sentences on seven for espionage in behalf of Britain.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A food order issued today makes it illegal "to obtain at a meal" more than one course of fish, meat, poultry, game, eggs or cheese.

Write today to both of your Senators (Massachusetts Senators are David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.). Address them at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Ask them to oppose Bill No. 1776, the Bill of Wrongs which would nullify the Bill of Rights, "a bill to authorize undeclared war in the name of Peace and dictatorship in the name of Defending Democracy."

The President would have absolute power, if this Bill is passed, to do the following without consulting Congress or the people: Cancel the Neutrality Act; Send our warships and merchant vessels into war zones; Take us into war wherever he chooses; GIVE AWAY OUR ENTIRE ARMY, NAVY AND EVERY AIRPLANE TO ANY NATION. NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT—Write yourself, simply, clearly—telephone your friends to do the same. Get telegrams in as well but most important, write in person.

Peace House, working with religious and peace organizations of long standing, appeals to all young men who are opposed to war from either religious or humanitarian convictions to register.

"CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR" on their draft questionnaire. After years of ardent work for peace our Government recognizes this right. Do not allow the opportunity to escape.

It is a matter of interest to observe that after England's many months of war, Canada does not have compulsory military service for overseas and has no Lend-Lease Bill but is SELLING armaments in large quantities to her mother country. In England over 50,000 Conscientious Objectors are helping their government in peaceful employment.

May not our own beloved country be also accused of war mongering while arming England through the front door and simultaneously shipping munitions to Germany through Russia?

The war in Africa, etc., has certainly an undeniable attitude of democracy. Gandhi, called the only heroic figure of the 20th century, expressed himself recently as follows: "It is a matter of deep regret to me that the Government (British) have not been able to appreciate the Congress (Indian) position—who felt a conscientious objection to helping a war which they regarded as one for saving imperialism, of which India is the greatest victim."

LETTERS FROM ENGLAND

This is another in a series of letters from Britain to friends and relatives in Greater Boston.

To: Mrs. S. Shumrack, 47 Shepard st., Lynn.
From: 50 Belgrade rd., London, N. 16.

My Dearest Sister Anne:

At last we got a letter from you and although we are a little relieved we are not quite. Your letter took seven weeks coming to us so I can imagine how you must worry if my letters take as long to reach you.

We are dreadfully worried about you and hope you are all O. K. We here are well and safe. It has been a lot quieter over London as the enemy has been concentrating elsewhere, but last night we had a very heavy barrage again.

We don't know as yet how much how near the damage was. We got through most of it in our shelters. It started at 5:30 and went on all night till 7:15. The previous night they did not come at all, so had to make up for it.

NIGHTS IN SHELTERS
We spend the nights in the shelter even if there is no raid. Such nights are so rare that we don't take chances. Anyway, it would mean dragging our bedding about at night, so most of us just shipped to the habit of spending our night in shelters.

In any case, most of us haven't had to go to at home. I should say we have a bed but not a home. I am just going to view a house in our street, as they are taking too long about making our house habitable. I can't stay at my friend's house indefinitely, although they are very nice indeed, and they tell us not to hurry and not to worry. I started this letter three days ago and have not had a chance to finish it.

Last night we had a heavy raid again. It lasted from 6 o'clock yesterday evening till 8 o'clock this morning and now there is a daylight raid.

There was a warning and an all clear earlier this morning. Now it is midday and another warning has just sounded. I can hear the planes as I am writing, but as there is no gunfire, they may be ours going out to meet the raiders. I will not close this letter until the all clear goes.

GOOD TO SEE HIM

We saw Alf last Saturday. Dad and I went to meet him from work and I spent a couple of hours with him before he went home to Ashford.

That is what we have come to. He hasn't a chance to come to us, so he suggested we meet him. It was real good to see him.

The days are so short and most sensible people don't go about at night, so we are not able to see each other as often as we used to. Of course we write and phone. I was going to give you Alf's address in my last letter but forgot to put it in. It is 9 Chatham rd., Ashford, Middlesex, England. They have a nice bungalow of six rooms and bathroom.

Of course it is not big enough to take all their furniture, for they had a bigger place before, but they have stored some. I will take the house I told you about. We have sent our references in and the builder is coming on Monday to see what wants doing. It is a nice little home of six rooms, kitchen and bathroom. I will have to let the upper part as I cannot afford the whole rent.

DIFFICULT TO GET

It is difficult to get a suitable two bedroom flat to suit our pockets, so by taking a house and sharing it, it works out better.

The house is fitted as two separate flats so it is all right. We must have three rooms and kitchen. This job of moving is an awful nuisance as it entails expenses which we could well do without.

I had a nice letter from Hewie yesterday. (The all clear is just going.) They must have driven them off as it was quiet all the time.

Hope this finds you all well and that I shall hear from you again soon.

Your loving sister,

Sarah.
P. S.—Bessie's address is 34 Alma rd., Peterborough, Northants, England.

The Vesper George Art Students are preparing for a fashion show to be held in the school auditorium on March 10. The show will feature designs by the students, including those of the freshmen in the textile and fashion illustration class. The show will be a great field for the students to display their work and receive criticism from the judges. The show will be a great opportunity for the students to show their talent and creativity. The show will be a great event for the school and the community.

EVEN if we do not go to war, our lending-leasing-giving policy will finally wreck us. Particularly our "lending" policy—if "lending" billions to countries that are now or will be bankrupt can be called "lending."

Our public debt is now about $46,000,000,000. The ceiling has been raised to $65,000,000,000. It may soon be $100,000,000,000—or why not $200,000,000,000?

The national deficit will be $5,000,000,000 at least this year. What would you think of a private concern with such an appalling budget that proposed to lend BILLIONS of dollars to its "neighbors"? Would you not expect a committee of lunacy to be appointed to examine the officials of such a corporation?

But that is what your government is doing. During the last war we took a great part of our Liberty Loan money and handed it over to our "friends" abroad.

When we timidly asked for payment we were called "Uncle Shylock" and "Uncle Sham."

Americans on sightseeing buses were stoned in Paris. England took the money she should have paid us and "loaned" it to Germany, Turkey and all points East and South.

History will repeat itself; we have learned nothing from the lessons of 1914-18.

Today we have practically been BLACKMAILED into making our treasury an international gift-shop.

Taxes mount—for England, China, the Argentine, Brazil (and, later, maybe, Spain, Greece and Russia) have demanded more money of "Uncle Shylock."

These taxes, "gifts" and "loans" will finally bankrupt us. This will bring on civil disturbances—maybe revolution.

The Communists fondly dream of such an event in the United States, for they thrive on economic and financial collapses.

"They hired the money, didn't they?" said Calvin Coolidge in his usually sententious manner when he was asked whether the European borrowers should pay us.

No—they DIDN'T "hire" the money. They "mooched" it out of the softest sack that the European and Asiatic landsharks ever came across in all their history—the U. S. A.

War? What will war, and even "victory," mean to us if our money is no good, our banks closed, our insurance policies void and hunger, with murder in its eye, stalks the streets?

BAY STATE WOMEN are once more seeking the right to serve on juries.

REP. CUTLER
Defends Women

Representative Leslie B. Cutler of Needham, sponsor of such excellent legislation, including a bill providing for blood tests for all persons contemplating marriage in Massachusetts, says in defense of the "women on the jury" proposal:

"We have women judges, women attorneys, women clerks, women plaintiffs and even women defendants. So why not women jurors?"

Representative Catherine E. Falvey of Somerville argues that under the present system that makes jury service an exclusively masculine affair, women are being deprived of their constitutional rights entitling them "to trial by a jury of their peers."

"A woman cannot fool another woman," Representative Falvey explains. "Yet you read about women fooling men every day. Case after case has been shown in glaring headlines where a man and a woman have been equally guilty, and where a male jury has convicted the man and freed the woman."

The truth is that the Age of Chivalry is very much alive in this Commonwealth.

We have written wise laws to protect widows and elderly women.

Courts generally compel husbands to support their wives and children, and severely punish those who refuse.

We exempt women—office-holding women included—from the payment of annual poll taxes.

So, logically, it may be assumed that the real reason why women have been kept off juries is because men have wanted to spare them the grief that frequently attends the obligation of having to sit in judgment on a murder case and to decide whether a fellow human being shall live or die.

Certainly it cannot be said that women are mentally inferior to men. In almost every business and profession they are constantly proving that they are not.

On The Side

SO FAR I have never owned a cigarette lighter, a cigar holder, a fountain pen, a wrist watch or a top hat. First automobile I owned was something called a Chandler. It could go 50 miles an hour but rattled a little at that speed. First dog I had was a black and tan mongrel named Wee Wee. "How I Got My First Job?" is often the subject of articles. How did you get yours? I answered a "Help Wanted" ad in the good, old classified and landed a berth with the Pennsylvania Railroad. It was a good job. Only thing I didn't like about it was there was too much work connected with it. I have never been fond of work. First meal I ever had in a restaurant was in the famous Smith & McNeill, Washington Market, Manhattan. The second was in a place called Dennetts. "Coffee and sinkers" originated in Dennetts. First show I ever saw was "Oliver Twist." Do you ever think of the famous firsts in your life? How about the first time you made a speech? Or the first time you danced the Rhumba?

SIDE LIGHTS: Helen Keller's favorite Biblical verse is: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest" . . . Margaret Sanger, birth control campaigner, had three children by her first marriage . . . H. G. Wells said the six men in history deserving to be called great were Jesus of Nazareth, Buddha, Aristotle, Asoka, Roger Bacon and Abraham Lincoln. I suppose you know all about Asoka. Well, sir, if you do you're a much better man than I am. I had to look it up in the Encyclopaedia . . . In 1942 the regular coast-to-coast plane schedule will carry you from Los Angeles to New York in eleven hours. First trip I made from coast-to-coast took 28 days. No, sir, I didn't go by covered wagon. Went on a steamship through the Panama Canal that was supposed to make the trip in 15 days but was held up in the canal 11 days by slides in the Culebra Cut.

PASSING BY: Jewel Ens. Once a major league baseball star. Was there ever a big leaguer with a shorter name than Ens? And why do parents give boys such names as Beverly, Marion, Jewel and Kay? . . . Charley Erb. Once a quarterback on University of California's "Wonder Team." Forget why they called it the "Wonder Team," but guess this was because it played Washington and Jefferson to a tie in the Rose Bowl. Charley was a quarterback in the days when that position was mostly played by small, peppery, human spark plugs with plenty of gray matter in the think tank. Now most of the quarterbacks weigh 180 pounds or over and do no thinking about the next play. That is decided by popular vote of the team in a huddle . . .

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Monday—Flying from Washington to Richmond, Va., yesterday morning, was very pleasant. It gave me time before I left to see my grandbaby for a little while and to have a very leisurely breakfast all by myself for the first time that I can remember this winter in Washington.

The baby is at the stage where everything goes straight into his mouth. Whether it is the teats around my neck, the spoons of the table, or the newspaper which he grabs out of my hand.

I discovered when little Johnny Boettger was his age that newspaper was evidently harmless, so I do not worry any more when I see it being chewed to a pulp.

The car met me in Richmond, and it took only three-quarters of an hour to reach Virginia State College. The plant has been greatly improved in the last few years through the use of various government setups.

A DELICIOUS lunch was cooked and served by the home economics girls, and I can touch for the fact that this course is well given. The head of the department told me that when they are through it the girls are prepared for 17 vocations.

Most of these young Negro people, however, take teaching positions. I feel sure that they are gradually raising the standard of living among their own people in the State of Virginia.

There was no convenient return plane, so I drove back in three hours and 20 minutes and arrived here in time for supper. Our house guests, Mr. Alexander Woolcott and his secretary, Mr. Hennessey, arrived in the afternoon and were settled in their rooms, prepared to meet all the rigors of daily acting in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

MRS. FLORENCE KERR of the WPA, came to supper and also my old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Allen of Oneida, N. Y., and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kerr, whom they are visiting down here.

Mrs. Allen broke a knee last year and has had a lot of trouble with it, and so she is on her way to Tucson, Ariz., to convalesce. However, she has lost none of her old spirit and remarked to me in parting that she is coming back to take up all the things she has been longing to do during her period of inactivity.

I did not know that I was bringing together two Oneida County (New York) people, but Mr. Woolcott and Mrs. Allen have an equal interest in Hamilton College and entertained us with stories about their mutual acquaintances.

Mr. Woolcott showed two reels of colored pictures in the evening, one taken in Marineland, Fla., and one in the autumn and winter showing his island and Vermont.

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE
WIRES HITLER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Gertrude Lawrence was one of the thousands who accepted the Nazi invitation to wire, collect, a message to Adolf Hitler. . . . Miss Lawrence's message was "WISH YOU WERE HERE". . . . Backstage at the Broadway Theater an usher discovered a man in white slacks swinging from the 50-foot ladder which is used for repairing the equipment for "Fantasia." He rushed to the front office and reported his discovery. . . . He was assured that permission had been granted. For the man was Anton Dolin, star of the Ballet Theater, preparing his version of the Stravinsky ballet, "Sportasia." He was practicing trapeze antics there, to the Fantasound presentation of the movie sequence wherein the Philadelphia Symphony's 103 pieces play Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring."

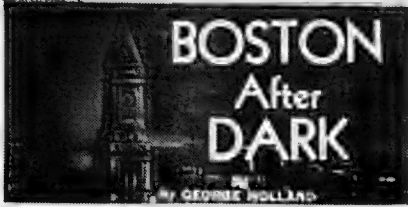

PHOTO DEPT.: Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt accompanied Count and Countess Kotzebue to the Casino Russe. They sat with a group of other guests, including Fannie Hurst and the Grand Duchess Marie, at a large table. One of the news photographers listened to his comrades discussing the possibilities of photographing the dowager Vanderbilt. "I'll settle it now," he announced, approached the table and took his picture. . . . Mrs. Vanderbilt objected and started to leave. "I didn't photograph the whole table," the photographer assured her, "just the other end—just that part, not the whole thing." . . . "Yes," said Mrs. Vanderbilt as she left. "You mean just like Mr. Hitler didn't take the whole of Czechoslovakia."

MOVIES DEPT.: Pierre Fresnay, the French star who last appeared on Broadway in "Noah," was offered a job in Hollywood at a fabulous salary. Fresnay was willing to accept only on condition that his wife, Yvonne Printemps, also appear in the picture. The film company, however, refused to sign the lady—and so the negotiations fell through. . . . "Pierre, you should've taken the offer," Fresnay was told. "After all, you have no money now." . . . "Well," the star shrugged, "I've always loved beyond my means."

LOCAL NOTES: Two bearded all-nighters sat at the Cafe Royal on Second Avenue lamenting the fate of the world. . . . "Ah, life," said the first, pointing to the liquid in front of him. "Life is like a glass of tea." . . . "Like a glass of tea?" repeated the second. "And why?" . . . "How should I know?" confessed the first. "I'm not a philosopher." . . . The committee which went to Puerto Rico concerning the Wages and Hours Bill submitted its report to Washington yesterday. It recommended a 25-cents-an-hour minimum for 12 industries there—as compared to 30 and 35 cents an hour in the same industries here. . . . While the press is speculating about the future of Tommy Corcoran, he's been practicing law in Washington at his office at Dempsey and Kaplowitz.

DRAMA DEPT.: Moss Hart is writing a book for Random House. He had to busy himself immediately, because of some of the mail he's been receiving about "Lady in the Dark"—his play about psychoanalysis. . . . His latest fan letter was one of encouragement. "I've read all about your visits to psychoanalysts and the play you wrote about it," wrote the well-wisher. "Buck up and have courage, sir. I used to be just like you—in exactly the same state, and I'm all right now. So cheer up." . . . He signed his name—and address: "N. J. State Hospital for the Insane."

SCHOOL DEPT.: Will Bradley, the band leader, played at the Georgia Tech prom and was invited to address the student jitterbugs. He was followed on the platform by a member of the faculty, who lectured the students about the new opportunities in the world and warned the young listeners about wasting time. "As I entered this room today," he stated, "I saw a four-letter word some one put on the door. I think it sums up all that I have said. It's a real four-letter word, but it describes perfectly all the many things of which I want to make you aware." He sat down, while the students craned their necks. There was only one word on that door—the four-letter word "PULL."

LESS THAN A MASHIE SHOT and a putt from the spot where he and his horn introduced swing and jam sessions to Boston, brilliant little Bobby Hackett, one of the "solidest" men in jazz, blasted the blues out of the rafters of the erstwhile church now known as The Versailles.

BOBBY'S HORN—A TRUMPET—IS A potent instrument when the little man is really hot. . . . And he was "steaming" throughout his premiere. . . . Ten years have slipped by since Bobby made musical history at the old Theatrical Club.

IT WAS NOT UNTIL HE BECAME LOST—apparently beyond retrieving—to Boston, that the "little man with the horn" began to be appreciated. . . . Then he was heard from in Greenwich Village, then as trumpet soloist for this band or that, and finally his own maestro.

BUT IT IS DOUBTFUL if his former clientele of the lamented Theatrical Club can be assembled at this time to pay him the homage due a celebrated jazz musician whose name is mentioned with the "tops" in his line. . . . A couple of Roosevelts, Franklins and Johns, were among Bobby's admirers of those exciting days.

NOW—WHEN IT IS MORE LAWFUL to drink spirituous liquors (thanks to another Roosevelt and a national awakening) one doesn't see the clusters of Harvard hep-cats and jivesters at the foot of an orchestra's podium, swaying to the music, partners in arm—but not dancing.

WHEN THEY WERE LISTENING to the newfangled musical motif known as swing in those days, the most authentic place to hear it was at the Theatrical Club—where Mr. Hackett, its leading local interpreter, was drawing down $35 a week.

HE MAY ATTRACT the college kids in the same fashion he drew the patronage of their older brothers—yes, and sisters. . . . But "swing," as perpetrated by Trumpeter Hackett, has spread out since the days when jam sessions were curiosities, and Bobby Hackett was the one and only swing maestro in Boston-town. . . . With June only a few months away, we would not be surprised if The Versailles (should Maestro Hackett remain) became the logical place to hold the reunions of more than one class of "ten years out."

AS HE PERFORMED LAST NIGHT, this department can wholeheartedly recommend to anybody's attention this same "little man with a horn." . . . But bring some cotton for your ears.

SOMETHING OLD—and something new. . . . The new came to the austere but pleasant halls of the Copley Plaza's dignified main dining room last night. . . . It took the form of an eight-person ice revue, and first night worries were plentiful. . . . Real ice is being used.

and it took solid form just in time to permit the scheduled performance.

GLADYS LAMB, a truly excellent figure skater, is the chief attraction.

ALICE BREWER'S SKEETO Shooting Range, in the heart of the Rialto (at 22-24 Piedmont st. to be exact) is another novelty and it was established with such alacrity that Miss Brewer's managerial talents cannot be doubted.

SOME VERY PRETTY young women, skilled in the use of firearms and possibly the beginning of a trend, are on hand to assist beginners. . . . The spot is open from noon to midnight. . . . Late roisterers are thus not a bother. . . . Lovely Harriet Hoctor, the ballerina, will make her first Boston nightclub appearance Wednesday. . . . Harriet danced in the film, "Ziegfeld Girl." . . . Previously, she had danced for Mr. Ziegfeld—in "Show Girl," and "Simple Simon."

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Kay Harris, the dark-eyed secretary whom Penny (Blondie) Singleton discovered in Cincinnati, gets the coveted "Tillie the Toller" role after all. Because the "Blondie" series, also based on a King Features comic strip, with Penny, Arthur Lake and Baby Larry Sims, has become so very popular on the screen, Columbia has been eager to get the right "Tillie."

Marion Davies created the first movie Tillie in the silent days, and what a cute Tillie she was, leading Mac a dog's life with all her naive mistakes.

Chic Young's cartoon, "Blondie," has become a household word because of the screen and radio and Harry Cohn is happy that "Tillie the Toller" will have the same success. Blondie herself turned talent scout and urged her bridegroom, Robert Sparks, who produces the "Tillie" series, to make a test of the Harris girl. She was first discarded as "not the type," but after other intensive tests she was finally selected.

LOIS ANDREWS

SNAPSOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The rumor persists that Lois Andrews and George Jessel have dated the stork—in spite of Lois' denial. Lots of weddings in Vic Fleming's family. His secretary, Nan Hynd, eloped to Yuma with James E. Anthony, son of writer Stuart Anthony; Nancy Kelly and her bridegroom, Edmund O'Brien, will be guests at a cocktail party given by her parents on Wednesday. Laird Cregar is suffering from a wicked impacted wisdom tooth; Ouida and Basil Rathbone are entertaining at a small party for Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt and Somerset Maugham next Sunday. The cocktail party given by Lady Furness and Gloria Vanderbilt was in honor of their brother, Harry Morgan, who just arrived from Cannes. He says the feeling in certain parts of France is unmistakably pro-British.

The two dozen red roses with a single white gardenia Alice Faye receives every day is from Charles Wrightman, Texas oil millionaire, Carole Landis and Conrad Nagel have really discovered each other.

Barbara Hutton Von Reventlow-Haugwitz has rented Mrs. Margaret Roach's beautiful Beverly Hills home. Maggie and young Margaret will move to a hotel; had a long talk with Charlie Winninger at the Robert Young party. Maybe you think we didn't reminisce. Charlie is absolutely the first person I ever interviewed so you see I have known him "since befo' de wah."

I CORNERED Basil Selznick at the Gloria Vanderbilt-Lady Furness party to ask for news. David admitted he had sold the A. S. M. Hutchinson novel, "If Winter Comes," to M-G-M for Robert Donat. He bought the rights from Paramount, who made a silent film of the novel with Percy Marmont about 15 years ago, when it was hailed as the best seller of the year. With the English locale it would be perfect to star Donat, who is already right there and has no intention of leaving. "If Winter Comes" is not unlike James Hilton's "We Are Not Alone" and would probably do as much for Donat as did Hilton's book, "Goodbye, Mr. Chips." "If Winter Comes" is about a misunderstood, inarticulate man who gets into all sorts of trouble trying to help a girl.

ONE OF THE MOST beautiful women in New York society is dark-eyed, stunning Kay Chaudeneau, who has been visiting here in Hollywood. I have often wondered why some movie producer didn't sign her and sure enough Lewis Milestone told me he had for Ronald Colman's picture, "My Life With Caroline."

Kay will have the second lead and it will be interesting to see if she photographs as well as she looks in real life. She will take her maiden name of Katherine Leslie.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW about Bette Davis, writing the story of her life? Yes, indeed, she is, and she's calling it "This One's On Me." When Bette will get time to write her life story is a moot question for it seems every day Warners are buying a new movie for her. I saw the galley proofs of "The Gay Sister" on Hal Wallis' desk a few days ago. They had many scribbled notations and it didn't take a detective to realize he practically had it before the cameras as a movie.

Although it sounds like a Lane sisters opus, Hal told me it is for Bette and he believes when it is published it will rank with "Kings Row" and "The Sisters."

THOMAS MITCHELL, of Academy Award fame, is cast as a gentle but eccentric old college professor who would do away with the tall Argentine Mona Maris in "Flight from Destiny," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens on Thursday. Miss Maris, it might be explained in the professor's behalf, is the brains of a counterfeiting ring in the Warner picture.

New Bill at Paramount, Fenway

In Warner Brothers' "Flight From Destiny," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway Theaters on Thursday, Jeffrey Lynn plays the part of an artist and Geraldine Fitzgerald is his untalented wife.

In real life, Lynn admits he can't draw a straight line with a ruler, while Geraldine is actually an accomplished painter, who studied at the Dublin Academy before she turned to the theater.

Thomas Mitchell, James Stephenson and Mona Maris round out the cast.

The second feature, "The Great Mr. Nobody," brings Eddie Albert back to the screen in a real-life role—that of an idealistic guy in a practical world. Supporting players are Alan Hale, Joan Leslie, William Lundigan and John Littel. Ben Stollott directed for Warner Brothers.

'Son of Monte Cristo' a Thriller

Another swashbuckling, adventurous role was awarded to Louis Hayward in his assignment to co-star with Joan Bennett in "The Son of Monte Cristo," Edward Small's latest production due tomorrow on Keith-Memorial screen.

In this United Artists release he plays the part of the son of the most fabulous character ever written into a book.

Award himself is a comparative newcomer in the ranks of Hollywood stars, but by excellent performances in a succession of Producer Small's swish hits he has earned himself a high position as a box office attraction.

"The Son of Monte Cristo" is the story of the young and gallant Count of Monte Cristo, son of France's greatest swordsman, and the villainous dictator of a little principality called Lichtenburg.

The nominal ruler, Grand Duchess Zona, played by Joan Bennett, is held a virtual prisoner by the dictator, portrayed by George Sanders.

When Zona secretly departs for Paris to ask help from Napoleon, she meets the daredevil Count of Monte Cristo whose identity is kept a mystery. The story reaches a thrilling climax when the Count becomes interested in the case of the lovely duchess.

The supporting cast includes such important names as Florence Bates, Lionel Royce, Montague Love, George Renavens and Jack Mulhall. The production was directed by Rowland V. Lee, who previously directed the great international success, "The Count of Monte Cristo."

The second feature, "Play Girl," is a comedy-drama starring Kay Francis and featuring James Ellison, Mildred Coles and Nigel Bruce.

LOUIS HAYWARD, who plays the sword-skilled son of Monte Cristo who steals the bride, Joan Bennett, at another man's wedding in "The Son of Monte Cristo." The Rowland V. Lee production opens tomorrow on Keith-Memorial screen.

A modern ingenuity and science, King Winter moved into the Oval Room of the Copley Plaza last evening and provided a setting for a very unusual and entertaining floor show . . .

A tiny skating rink with real ice has been installed in front of the orchestra dias and during dinner and supper Gladys Lamb and her husband, Rube Yocum, and a group of young ice stars are presenting a miniature ice carnival with comedy, clowning and spectacular skating all rolled into one . . .

Having just wished their daughter and son-in-law God-speed on their honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Childs of Lexington shared a table right beside the ice rink with Harry Morrow and Arthur Race . . . Mrs. Childs, with her toes resting practically on the ice, had more thrills and chills than anyone . . . Buddy Lewis' hair-raising barrel jumping stunts ended right beside her and each time he took off for a leap across the ice it looked as if he was going to land either under or on top of the Childs' table . . .

Also enjoying the novel dinner entertainment, which includes everything from a graceful ballet dance on skates, to a spectacular jumping through a burning hoop stunt, all in the space of a tiny ice rink, was post deb Lois Tanner Greene of Cambridge, celebrating her birthday in a twosome . . . Her dark hair was set off by a flame silk jersey dress with gold buttons and belt . . .

Still others in the dinner crowd were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bostwick, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Humphrey, Mrs. W. B. P. Weeks of Commonwealth ave., Dr. Martin Spellman, and many more . . .

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"PICKING 'em up and laying 'em down"—remember that old Army phrase in the first World War? Today the kid draftees are using it again and maybe thinking it's new. But it isn't new. It's as old as the first line of weary soldier feet that went plodding across the horizon, "picking 'em up and laying 'em down" in the line of grim duty.

It's as old as the ageless struggle of the human spirit to keep going since the long trek from the jungle to the stars began.

"Picking 'em up and laying 'em down," step by step, thud by thud, there are times in life when that's all that you can do . . . and you're earning your medals if you do that much. In fact, most of life is like that, Big Glamour Moments being as rare as hen's teeth.

TIMES when you've had the flu and can't shake out of it. (Just had it myself, which is why I'm putting my heart into this.)

Times when you've gotten so far behind on your rent and installments that you expect you'll be out on the street by 2 a. m. tomorrow.

Or you've lost your job complete. Or the news from Europe gets you down. Or the wife needs an operation, desperate bad and you can't afford it. Or the little kid casts off anchor.

Times when your brain's gone blooey and you've no more oomph in your spine than last week's platter of spaghetti.

Then there's just one thing that you and I can do, partner, and that's PICK 'EM UP AND LAY 'EM DOWN! GO ON MARCHING!

Go on making the motions, even if you don't know the why or the when or the where!

Go on doing the things that you once knew were decent and orderly and helpful!

Go on keeping the pattern of civilization, even though you've no stomach for it—even though you're rather break ranks and go off and howl like a timber wolf. People have been wanting to do that since the world began, and plenty have done it. Yet the long march has gone on in spite of them. It has gone on because of the tired, disgusted, bewildered—and usually nameless—ones who have felt neither inspiration nor desire—BUT HAD THE COURAGE TO "PICK 'EM UP AND LAY 'EM DOWN!"

TIRED TODAY? Dizzy and discouraged, old partner? Then stop trying to think. Stop trying to analyze. Stop waiting for that up-and-often feeling to come! Just go ahead, anyway. Do the thing that's got to be done.

Think of those thousands of scared, untrained kids who are homesick out there in Uncle Sam's camps, learning to defend their nation.

Invest Your Idle Time

A girl who's turned her leisure moments into a neat profit! By snatching a part of each day for the study of shorthand, she's won for herself a good office job!

Whether you're starting out to look for a job or whether you're anxious to get ahead on the one you have, shorthand will help you. And any girl with a little enthusiasm can teach herself in home lessons, acquire a skill that means financial independence.

Shorthand isn't nearly as complicated as you may think. Instead of spelling out a word letter by letter as you would in longhand, you write only a "squiggle" or two, symbols for the sounds in the word. For instance, "fashion" is just one simple hooked curve with a dot. "Selection" is a potbock with two dots.

The many words in our language are all made up of the same few sounds, so you won't have much of a task to learn them.

Then for these words you'll use over and over again in writing business letters you have special extra-brief symbols called "word signs." These are particularly easy to write and remember. "Gentlemen" is a straight stroke and hook. "Delivery" is the same symbol turned upside down.

While you practise symbols say the words aloud to train your ear and hand to work together. Then, as you improve, you can practice taking down talks on your radio. Before you know it you're winning with real job-winning speed and accuracy.

Knowing shorthand puts you in the class of well-paid skilled workers! Our 40-page booklet, PITMAN SHORTHAND SELF-TEAUGHT, gives step-by-step lessons in writing shorthand. Has word signs and phrase forms useful in business dic-

Feast Before the Fast

By MARTHA LEE

"THE FEAST before the fast" is the order of the day on "Fat Tuesday" in New Orleans, where the world famous Mardi Gras lasts from Tuesday's sun-up to the dawn of Ash Wednesday and the beginning of the 40 days of Lent.

"Fat Tuesday" is the translation of the French words, Mardi Gras, a "fat" day it is in New Orleans, with every pot on the stove and every plate set for a feast to be seen and eaten during the day, which is Latin for "thousand" or "many." It is from the waters of the Gulf of Mexico that the portland just in Fat Tuesday... additional menus, as well as through-out Lent. Canned shrimp go blithely into tempting, spicy dishes with other ingredients are like to be rice, okra and hominy, combined with sauces and gravies defying best descriptions, seasoned to a perfection which only Creole cooks produce.

Why not celebrate "Fat Tuesday" in your own kitchen, with the same recipes that are used every year in New Orleans? Shrimp in cans are the answer, for they come already cooked and shelled, ready for use in a dozen different Creole dishes. Use these same recipes throughout the 40 days.

Love

Has Other Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For the past two years I have been going "steady" with a young man, and we are planning to be married. Once in a while he takes out a certain girl who used to work in the same office with him. This rather upsets me, and he gives as his reason that he wants to find out whether he really loves me or not. It seems to me when a man declares his love for a girl and expects to marry her, that he ought to know what he's doing. He says if I get so worked up over these dates, he won't tell me about them in the future.

Would it be better to ask him to make a choice between this other girl and me, or just let matters drift?

DISCOURAGED.

For an engaged man to take out another girl just to test his affection for his fiancée strikes me as pretty indifferent love-making. You're only human to feel as you do about it, and I'm sorry that this had to happen to you. However, try not to show him how deeply it hurts.

If your fiancée is drifting toward this other girl, there really isn't anything to be done. But be a good sport, and save your face by taking an interest in someone else. Men sometimes have these vague impulses, then come back, as birds do, when you leave the cage door open.

BROWDER PICKS ROBERT MINOR TO LEAD U. S. COMMUNISTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (INS) — States to serve a four-year term named Robert Minor, veteran Communist, to replace Earl Browder today as general secretary of the party.

Taxes can destroy the press. "Regulation" of advertising can discourage merchants and producers from offering their wares through the cheap and simple method of notices in the press; advertising helps pay the cost of gathering and distributing other news. Even so seemingly remote a thing as high telegraph rates can stifle the newspaper which must get you today's news today.

Thus, when you see blood on a "Strong Man's" sword, make sure it is not newspaper blood.

Blood on the Blade

"THE pen is mightier than the sword" only when the pen is free.

You hear much talk of dictatorship and total central power these days. You need not fear it so long as men can write what they think and report what they see.

If you suspect a dictator—a "Strong Man," is approaching, watch his nation's newspapers. If they are healthy, unsuppressed, vigorous, it is a safe sign. So long as the ballot remains and you keep your right to choose how, when and where you shall spend your money, you need only a virile press to protect you.

But remember that the press can be attacked in many ways.

"Secret" government withholds news at its source—or distorts it with lies and false information.

This is no plea for the rights and liberties of newspapers for their own sakes. There is probably as much or more material reward for publishing a dictator-controlled paper as for printing an independent newspaper.

We warn you to watch for your own sake. The moment your free newspapers succumb, the light goes out on your individual liberty.

You'll know no longer the difference between straight fact and the fancies of your "Leader." You'll hear nice things, get sugar-coated "urgings" in your papers. But you'll never have the chance to make up your own mind—about a candidate for office or an article in a store. Your mind will be made up for you, by the simple process of giving you only one side—the dictator's side—of the news.

AUTO CRASH PROBE TIP WINS PRIZE

An investigation into a fatal auto accident revealed a tragic train of events which followed three young business associates. Death came to two of them and a third just escaped the fate of the others. A news-wise Boston man's tip on the probe of the strange sequel of tragedies wins top prize of $5 in the weekly Record-American-Advertiser Tipster Contest.

Second prize of $3 goes to an Everett man for reporting a reconciliation between an Everett city councilor, Alfred Farese, and his wife.

THREE ALERT TIPSTERS

Awards of $2 each go to three alert tipsters. They are a Providence man for reporting a spectacular three-alarm fire in the Providence railroad station; a Revere man for his picture of an auto accident in that city in which two school teachers were injured; a Brookline man for the tip on a strip-holdup of a young girl in a Brookline cleaning shop.

REPORTS DEATH FALL

Other $1 awards go to a Melrose man for reporting the death of a man in a fall at Haymarket sq.; a Somerville man for a tip on a bad auto crash in Chelsea; a Dorchester man for a telephone tip on the death of a prominent Dorchester business man; a Lynn man for the tip that a woman was killed in an auto accident which seriously injured her sister.

Campaign Probe Clears Leaders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A special grand jury which investigated 1940 election campaign expenditures reported today that it had found nothing to justify indictments. Edward J. Flynn, John D. M. Hamilton, Lauchlin Curran, R. J. Reynolds and other Democratic and Republican leaders appeared before the jury.

The grand jury said, however, in a report to the district court for the District of Columbia that it was of the opinion that "there was unquestionably a very large sum of money collected and expended in the campaign of 1940, yet the jury has reached the conclusion that if this very large sum of money was excessive, it was collected and expended so as not to violate the letter of the law."

Soldiers Can't Take Babying

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Distributed by International News Service

I see they demoted four top sergeants at Fort Dix for refusing to be father and mother to their men.

That's a complicated order and I think the Fort Dix commanders should make up their minds just what they want those sergeants to do.

No sergeant has time to baby anybody in a man's army. First of all, the Army is full of goldbrickers. Second, are we running an Army or a pet shop?

I should know about goldbrickers because I was the champ in 1913. I could dodge more details than a schoolboy reciting the Punic Wars.

Babying a soldier is a sure way to kill him. Overfed him, overdressed him, underworked him, let him sleep in a barracks with the windows closed and near a red-hot Stihley stove, and you will have one dead soldier on your hands in a month.

That's as true as meridian time. Everything I wrote about happened to me until finally a tough top sergeant kicked me out into the open air and I've been grateful to him ever since.

I got tougher than five cents worth of cat meat, the military police fled in horror and when I walked into a cigar store the proprietor fainted and the slot machines emptied themselves in my lap.

My advice is not to baby a soldier. It was Napoleon's hat that was three-cornered and not his pants.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25—It was late in the afternoon, and I had returned to the shores of the Gulf of Mexico after playing a game of golf at the Clearwater Country Club. The day was warm, and a refreshing breeze came off the Gulf.

Mrs. Boston and I walked along the seashore. In the West, the sun was dropping lower in the sky. The sky was a scarlet red which was reflected on the clean, bright sand. They tell me that nowhere in America are the sunsets as wonderful as along the Gulf, and I am ready to agree that this statement is correct.

The sea gulls surrounded a group of children who fed them bread. The hungry birds took the bread right out of the children's hands like the pigeons do the peanuts that people feed them on Boston Common.

Walking along the white sands were many people seeking some relief from their usual duties in factory, store and the professions.

There was a young girl seated on one of the jetties that shoots out into the Gulf. She wore a bright red coat, golden colored slacks, and a blue kerchief. She had a pair of sandals on her feet. The girl had blonde hair, and when she smiled she showed teeth that were as white as the glistening sands. A girl with such blonde hair must have had blue eyes, but from the distance I could not distinguish the color of her eyes. Her sandaled feet splashed in the waters of the Gulf and were kissed by the rolling surf.

Nearby on the jetties stood a youth dressed in the uniform of the Naval aviation.

They were both young and life looked as glorious to them as the blazing red sunset.

I was forcefully struck by the mighty contrast that the world presents today. Here under the aegis of liberty and the guarantees of our Constitution, men, women and children throw aside for the moment the cares and responsibilities of life, and, basking in the glorious sunlight of free America, breathe the fresh, pure air of forest, field and seashore.

Before the outbreak of the present world conflagration, tens of millions enjoyed these same privileges. Today in many cases their necks are bent under the yoke of serfdom, and an uncertain future holds for them, not redemption from their present misery, but famine, pestilence and death.

Hard Work Has Won for America

THESE ARE sobering thoughts. I wonder how many in this greatest and fairest of Republics realize deep down in their hearts what a magnificent heritage has been given to us, and what this government really means to their individual lives. For even here familiarity can breed contempt, and too often one appraises rightly his prerogatives only when he has lost them.

Other peoples see the splendor of American life such as I see it in Florida, as it is in New England, in California, in the mid-West and in every other section of the United States. They yearn for the things we often regard as commonplace.

Our vast population of almost 130,000,000 people, extensive resources, mass production facilities, beautiful lakes and rivers and rolling countrysides and fields bursting with fertility, these and more have impressed all nations with the blessings, the power and the initiative of the land of the Stars and Stripes.

All this was the product of hard work and sacrifice. I have seen the magic growth of Florida over a period of 20 years, and also that of parts of New England. Other times and other men have evaluated properly the heritage handed down to a free people, and have moulded a national will to defend and perpetuate this inheritance.

As I looked out at the sunset over the Gulf, I felt that today, though our population is cosmopolitan, there is in the soul of America the determination to preserve inviolate the tradition of lib-

BRUINS MUST KEEP PACE TO STAY IN RACE FOR TOP

A chapter never believed possible will be written into hockey history tonight if the unbelievable Bruins can stretch their unbeaten streak to 24 at the expense of the dangerous New York Rangers at the Boston Garden.

COLLEGE CAREERS REACH END?—Despite the fact that they are juniors Al Dumont, left, and Bob Mee may be playing the final game of their college careers when B. C. faces Northeastern tonight at Arena. Mee is a member of the Naval Reserve and may be called to the colors anytime while Dumont is contemplating joining the Air Corps.

Victory, or even a tie, tonight would mean that the Bruins have completed a total of half their schedule without a loss. When the Rangers went 19 games last year without a defeat, experts figured that the mark would never be broken and others were of the opinion that it would be years before it was approached because of the supposed strengthening of the weaker teams.

Yet, here are the Rossmen on the verge of game No. 24 without a loss.

To hit this mark one would think that Les B's would sit back and just play for a tie but ironically enough, they can't afford a deadlock—they have to win.

The league standings give you the reason for that. Those Toronto Maple Leafs are a point in front of the Rossmen, and even though the Boston outfit has a game in hand, one point may make the difference between first and secand place in the windup just nine games away.

Toronto plays the Americans at New York tonight and with the Amerks minus Pat Egan in addition to their other casualties, the Leafs are a cinch to grab two points.

And since the Bruins meet the Leafs at Toronto Saturday night, it would be a lot nicer if they could invade the league leaders' camp just a point off the top rather than a full game.

But the Bruins aren't looking ahead to Saturday. The Rossmen know they can't underestimate the Blue Shirts for anybody who thinks he has a soft spot as far as the Rangers are concerned is doomed to disappointment.

Even though the Patrickmen are in fourth place—a strange spot for the invaders, every now and then they start eliciting like the team that won the Stanley Cup last year and that means trouble for the opposition.

Great B. C. Sextet Ends Season Tonight

One of the greatest college sextets ever assembled in these parts will bow out of competition when the Boston College hockey team completes its season with once defeated Northeastern supplying the opposition tonight at the Arena.

The Eagle-Husky clash features a college double-header.

Boston University and M. I. T. will tussle in the secondary contest. Both games are New England Intercollegiate League affairs.

Because Northeastern gave the Eagles its toughest tussle on Boston ice this season before Boston College skated off with a 9-3 decision the largest crowd of the college season is expected at the Arena tonight.

The soaring Eagles will be seeking their 13th straight win of the season.

By posting victory tonight Boston College can gain its second straight N. E. League crown and claim the mythical Eastern collegiate championship.

The game will mark the end of the college hockey careers of Capt. Johnny Pryor, Joe Maguire and Ray Chalmers of B. C. Pryor and Maguire are seniors. Chalmers, a junior, plans to join the U. S. Army Air Corps this summer.

Other Eagles who also may be playing their final college game are:

Bob Mee, Arlington boy, whom experts have called "the greatest defensman in American college hockey today"; Al "Fishy" Dumont, the other link in the high scoring first wave and Larry "Babe" Babine, lightning fast second liner.

Mee is a member of the Naval Reserve and may be called any time while the latter pair are contemplating enlisting in the Air Corps.

Toronto's Syl Apps made the pursuer's role the most interesting part in the National Hockey League scoring race last week.

While Bill Cowley, Bruins' center who needs only three assists to set a new league record, was held pointless all through the week, Apps picked up five points on three goals and two assists. Thus, 'instead of being nine points behind as he was a week ago, Apps trailed Cowley by only four points, 43-44, after last Sunday's games.

Cowley had 13 goals and 35 assists while Apps, second in both scoring divisions, had 20 goals and 24 assists.

Harris Should Click In Sox Youth Plan

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 25—After experiencing several unhappy campaigns with his Red Sox pitchers, Joe Cronin has announced his intention to sink or swim with his youngsters this year.

That means a glorious opportunity for Mickey Harris, talented young southpaw from Queen's Village, L. I.

WES FERRELL

FERRELL HERO OF YOUNG BEES

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 25—The kid hurlers upon which the hopes of Casey Stengel's Bees rest have found themselves an idol.

He is Wesley Cheek Ferrell, a far different Wes than the prima donna who used to perform in the American League to the ohs and ahs of the lady fans and the boos and jeers of the bleacherites.

The once proud and aloof Ferrell gave veteran camp followers the surprise of their lives yesterday when he spent a solid half-hour demonstrating to a group of rookies the manner in which he throws a curve ball.

EXPLAINS DELIVERY

Everyone figured Wes would give young George Barnicle a cold shoulder when the Fitchburg lad, who has plenty of brass, asked him how he released his curve ball.

On the contrary, Ferrell patiently explained his delivery, and then stood back of Barnicle offering advice as he attempted to capture the motion.

When the other rookies saw what was going on they rushed out to the mound, and he offered advice to each of them in turn.

Today you couldn't convince any of the young fingers that Ferrell is anything but a great guy.

KNEW HOW TO WIN

And thinking it over, it may well be they are right. While his celebrated tantrums have won him a lot of unfavorable publicity, they have always been aimed at himself.

He always worked hard, and gave the best he had out on the mound, although it must be admitted that in late years his best has hardly been satisfactory.

But if age mellowed him, Ferrell might well be a handy man to have on anybody's ball club. When his arm was right he sure knew how to win. And he's intelligent enough to be able to pass the secret along.

Phillies Try Out Dorchester Hurler

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25 (AP)—Merrill May, star third baseman of the Phillies, has signed his 1941 contract. President Gerry Nugent of the Phils announced.

Other contracts came from Second Baseman Emmett Mueller and Roy Bruner, a righthanded pitcher. Nugent also said that at the sug-

Mickey, just turned 23, was in the Sox camp last spring. He was something of a sensation, too. Not only that but he continued to be when the club went north.

He licked the White Sox, the Senators and the A's (twice). He pitched a bang-up game against the Yanks in New York one afternoon which the Sox won in the 11th inning, 2-1, which Jack Wilson, relieving in the seventh, got credit for.

So it came as rather a shock to the Boston writers when he was released early in July to Scranton "for further experience." He had won 19 games at Scranton the year before and seemed to have gained all the experience he needed with that Class A club.

But Mickey didn't sulk. He dug right in for his old man, Ver. Nemo Leibold, won 10 and lost 5 from July 4 on and helped pitch Scranton to the pennant.

SOX WORRIED

Mickey took sick with intestinal flu during the Eastern League playoffs, so that when he reported to the Sox in Cleveland at the close of the season, he had a temperature of 106 and was immediately shipped to the hospital. After six days there, he was flown back to his Brooklyn home to recuperate. He lost 16 pounds during his illness and Sox officials were worried about their crack young southpaw.

But a few weeks at home, and three more weeks in Florida not only put Mickey back on his feet but made him bigger and stronger than ever. Dr. Tommy Richards was surprised and delighted when he put his O. K. on him just before Christmas.

So here's Mickey back again, weighing 187 now to his 175 of last spring, and looking forward to establishing himself firmly in the American League.

PLENTY OF MOXIE

One thing in his favor is the fact that he doesn't scare easily. He's got plenty of moxie. A good example is that told by one of his team-mates at Scranton last year.

"We were fighting Hartford for the pennant," this other Scranton graduate was saying, "and Jack Onslow, managing Hartford, made Mickey the target of his sulphuric barbs every day during the series."

That Onslow was really nasty, and used to burn Mickey up so much that Leibold had to hold him back from wading into Jack.

"Mickey started the tell-tale game of the series, and Onslow sure enough got right on him. But Mickey didn't even answer Onslow, much as it must have burned him, because Leibold had given him strict instructions not to get thrown out of the game."

Mickey's retort was a one-hit, 1-0 shutout, and the hit was a scratch at that.

"Onslow wasn't too bad at that, I guess, because after the game he was the first to congratulate Mickey."

Yes, Queen's Village Mickey is there when the chips are down, and if Mr. Cronin does stick to his resolve of sinking or swimming with his rookie pitchers, 23-year-old Mickey will help keep him afloat.

HEART ATTACK BLAMED FOR BOXER'S DEATH

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Arne Anderson, Swedish immigrant youth who sought fame and wealth in the American prize fight ring, found death instead.

The 22-year-old Minneapolis heavyweight was knocked off his feet last night by Lou Thomas of Indianapolis in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-rounder at Marigold Gardens, neighborhood fight center. One hour and seven minutes later the youth was declared dead.

HEART ATTACK BLAMED

Dr. Paul Schmitt, coroner's physician, said that an autopsy discloses that death was due to a heart attack and that the boxer suffered from an enlarged heart. Coroner A. L. Brodie announced that no inquest would be conducted because the death was due to natural causes.

Thomas, who at 202 pounds outweighed his rival by 12½, said that he and Anderson clinched in the seventh round. He explained that immediately thereafter he shot a short right to Anderson's chin, the latter reeling over backward and striking his head hard on the canvas. He never moved again.

As soon as the 10-count was completed Dr. Frank Lagorio, State Boxing Commission physician, jumped into the ring and began an examination of the prostrate fighter. He summoned an inhalator squad, which tried for an hour to revive the youngster.

NOTED AMATEUR

Anderson came to the United States in July, 1936, from his native Stockholm where he had won fame as a rugged battler.

He had won the amateur heavyweight title of Sweden while in the army there. Later capturing the professional title, but his ring efforts in this country had met in different success. His ring opponents had included Johnny Paycheck, Les Savold, Buddy Knox, Chuck Crowell and Johnny Hansen.

Anderson had taken out U. S. citizenship papers more than a year ago and had expected to be inducted into the army soon, having drawn a low draft number.

Mother With Two Boys in Service Talks

THE MOTHER with two boys in army service was standing in front of her bungalow looking out at the sunset. I greeted her, and then stopped to chat with her.

"How does a mother with two boys in the army feel about conditions today and the possibility of war?" I asked the mother.

"I am against war, and I hope we shall not get into it," replied the mother in a firm tone of voice as she lifted her head high in the air. "Each night I pray that the United States may not become involved in the war. I also pray for my two boys now in the service. I pray that if war cannot be avoided that my two boys may come through it unharmed, and that the America I have known since I was a little girl in Georgia may always endure."

I did not attempt to add anything to this statement. I left the mother looking out at the blazing sunset, knowing that with a prayer on her lips her thoughts were in army camps in Georgia and in California where her sons are with the colors.

Hatlo' KAPLAN CAN BRING RING TITLE TO HUB

EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1941

Forty-four rounds of fighting, with a local star participating in each of the six bouts, is the menu Rip Valenti and his Goodwin A. C. will serve to the fans next Friday night at the Boston Garden when Merry Mike Kaplan, Roxbury, clashes with Vic Delicourt, N. Y., in the 10-frame feature.

Abe Denner of the West End, the thin thumper who is moving up in pro ranks, mixes with Nat Littin of New York in the semi-final which is listed for 10 heats.

Below this are a quartet of sixes: Harold Harris, Malden, vs. Lefty LaChance, Lisbon, Me.

Al Priest, Cambridge, vs. Mickey Green, Lisbon, Me.

Eddie DeAngelis, Revere, vs. Earl Roy, Bristol, Ct.

Al Sforza, North End, vs. Bob Allard, Lynn.

LaChance and Harris fought a furious six-round draw in the last Goodwin A. C. carnival. Priest is a rapidly rising welterweight who only recently made his pro debut and hopes to go further at the expense of Green. LaChance, from Lisbon, reports Green is exceptionally good.

Sforza, excellent as an amateur, makes his pro debut with Allard. DeAngelis, stopped by Roy, goes looking for revenge.

It's a strong supporting cast but the return of Kaplan, absent from this vicinity for some 18 months, crowds the spotlight.

Kaplan is Boston's hope to become the first world's champion from the Hub since Jack Sharkey. He's on the verge of a title fight with Fritz Zivic, to whom he lost a shady split decision a year ago in Philly. He's sure he can whip Zivic if he gets another chance.

Merry Mike intends to further strengthen his claim for a championship shot by dynamiting Delicourt, rough, tough, two-fisted New Yorker.

Success of Giants Depends on Jurges

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP)—The story of the New York Giants is wrapped up inseparably with the story of Shortstop Bill Jurges.

Until the day last summer when Jurges was struck back of the ear by one of Bucky Walters' fast balls, the Giants had fared unexpectedly well in the National League race. They were up in the running.

From the moment their infield star was carried off the Giants never looked the same. They started skidding and wound up a dismal sixth, hooted by the few fans who entered the Polo Grounds.

JURGES CHEERFUL

Now Jurges is back in training camp here, trying to conquer the effects of the injury that had him in and out of medical clinics most of the winter. The whole camp is watching his every move, realizing that the club's chances of getting out the second division in the coming campaign rest upon Bill's complete recovery.

About all that can be reported at this early stage is that Jurges is working hard and is cheerful about his condition. In batting practice yesterday he whaled one far over the fence, and he was kidding everybody in sight—a good sign.

"Of course, I'm not 100 per cent yet," he said, "but I'm feeling pretty good. I've felt no dizziness the last few days."

Manager Bill Terry has asked the boys not to ask Jurges how he feels every five minutes.

WEAKEST ON MOUND

If Jurges doesn't make it—if the dizzy spells return and he is forced to hang up his cleats—then the Giants will be pretty hopeless outfit. The veterans of their last great team—Hubbell, Ott, Schumacher and Joe Moore—are only playing out their string, and the rebuilding program has been makeshift.

The club's pitching staff probably is the weakest in the National League. The past winter Manager Terry asked the Giants' directors to get him Kirby Higbe from the Phillies if they didn't get anybody else. They tried hard, to give them credit, but Larry MacPhail had Higbe sewed up for Brooklyn all the time.

The directors finally had to settle for Bob Bowman from the Cardinals, a promising young right-hander with a record of 7 won and 5 lost last year. That is not a sensational record exactly, but it looks good when compared with the figures set by last year's Giants staff. Not one of them was over 500 in the won and lost column, and Schumacher was the ace with 13 and 13.

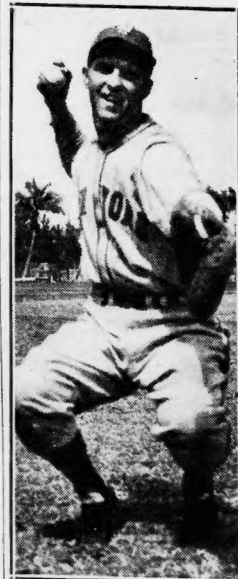

DANNING EN ROUTE

Bowman might help some. He says the Cardinals had so many young hurlers to look over last year that he didn't have a chance to get in shape, and that just when he finally was reaching form he got spiked. Bowman was the boy who accidentally beamed Joe Medwick in Brooklyn and was publicly berated by MacPhail.

The only newcomer likely to break into the Giants infield is Joe Orenco, also from the Cardinals, who has first call on third base. They don't know whether Burgess Whitehead intends to play second or not. He has told Terry he positively will not perform for the same money he got last year. If he means it, then the Giants really are sunk.

Harry Danning, the holdout catcher, is on his way to report, but he will arrive after the club has left tomorrow night for Havana and will have a big hotel to roam around in almost by himself until his teammates return from their series with the Dodgers. Three days of that and he'll probably sign at any price just to have somebody to talk to.

NEW "JINT" from Joisey—Ray Blaemire, catcher from the Jersey City club who is now with the New York Giants, is shown in action throwing during practice at Miami.

5 SOUTHPAWS BATTLE FOR 2 B'S BERTHS

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 25—Of the 16 pitchers who are working out here with the Bees under Manager Casey Stengel and Coach George "High Pockets" Kelly, no less than five are southpaws.

For a number of years many pitchers have been able to stay up in the big leagues solely because they served from the port side. It was a great asset to be a left hand pitcher, regardless of ability.

A year ago the Bees had only one worthwile southpaw at Bradenton, Joe Sullivan, the knuckle ball chucker from Bremerton, Wash.

"Sully's only rival was Billy Weil, who was on his way out even before he had been in. Due to the fact that it is absolutely necessary for all major league clubs to have at least one left hand pitcher, Manager Casey Stengel held onto Joe Sullivan.

GREAT COMPETITION

Right now, it's only natural that Joe Sullivan should have the call over the other port sliders. But the call at this stage of the eliminations doesn't mean a thing. "Sully" has a battle on his hands if he's going to retain his job.

In the first place, there's Art Johnson, the 21-year-old southpaw, who was so effective while pitching for Winchester High School three years ago that Jack Onslow picked him up for the Bees organization. He did not get a chance to display his wares until he was sent to work under Bob Coleman at Evansville late in the season of 1939. A year ago, Johnson pitched for Hartford, where he won seven games.

According to the experts, who've seen him in action, Art Johnson is a great prospect. He's a loose-jointed hurler, with a fine fast ball and a pretty fair curve and a nice change of pace. In addition, however, Johnson is a great competitor.

GAINS HEIGHT

Then, there is Ed Carnett, who was drafted by the Bees from the Binghamton Club of the Eastern League, starting his career with Tulsa, Okla. his home town. He didn't get many opportunities to pitch at Binghamton, working in only 13 games but he came up with six wins against three defeats and he beat Hartford twice during the play offs.

Carnett is what the scouts class as a cute southpaw. He doesn't appear to have much but he manages to win ball games, particularly the close ones. He's a six-footer and about 175 or 180. And, he does considerable damage to opponents when he gets the bat in his hands.

Bob "Ace" Williams, who hurried for Amherst for three years and was signed by the Bees after graduation last June, is the string bean type. He didn't weigh 150 when he joined the Bees last season. But today he tips the beam at 176.

SPAWN A "NATURAL"

To say that any of his National League exhibitions were anything but duds would be rank exaggeration. He was well shelled on all three occasions that Casey Stengel sent him to the mound. Like all successful college hurlers, Williams came up with the impression that he was another Plank, Maxquade or a Grove. But, when he became disillusioned, "Ace" was smart enough to go down to Hartford and get his bearings.

Because he has put on weight he realizes that pitching in the National League is a tougher assignment than college ball, "Ace" may grab himself a job.

Then, too, there's a kid in camp, who looks like a "natural." He is Milt Spahn, 18 year old kid from Buffalo, N. Y., who played junior American League ball in the Bison City against Sibby Sisti.

He's not a very husky kid but he has all the earmarks of a coming southpaw. He was with Bradford, the Bees' farm in the Pony League, for a time last year and attracted plenty of attention.

So for the next five weeks, there'll be five southpaw pitchers battling for two places. Art Johnson is as good as qualified right now, so it will be a knock down and drag out affair between the veteran Joe Sullivan, "Ace" Williams, Ed Carnett and Milt Spahn, with the odds favoring Carnett for the odd berth.

Streaking Ramblers Face Leaders

The Philadelphia Ramblers, who have won six straight games in a belated effort to get one of the three playoff positions in the American Hockey League's eastern division, run into really tough opposition tonight. They meet the Cleveland Barons, leaders of the western group, on Cleveland's rink.

The Barons are 10 points ahead of their field and in very little danger of being overtaken, even though they've played three more games than the second-place Hershey Bears.

Despite their winning streak, the Ramblers haven't made much progress toward the playoffs. They're still five points behind the third-place New Haven Eagles.

LIONS CAN CATCH GREEN IN HOOP RACE

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Columbia's Lions, still hopeful of capturing the Dartmouth Indians in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League race, seek to move up a step tonight at the expense of the last-place Yale team.
 That's no easy job, for Yale, despite its record of seven losses in nine games, has a notably strong offensive team and has been losing only by narrow margins. In their previous meeting, Columbia won 40-38 in an overtime period.

GREEN BEATEN ONCE

Last Saturday's beating by Dartmouth dropped Columbia into a second-place tie on percentages with Cornell, but as the Lions have lost only two games and Cornell three, Columbia figures to have the better chance for the title. Dartmouth's record is one defeat in eight games.

Cornell is the only other league member scheduled for action tonight, meeting its powerful upstate rival, Syracuse. Other leading games in the East send Canisius against Fordham and St. Joseph's of Indiana against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

CAME FROM BEHIND

Canisius, starting a four-game tour, dropped its 1933 decision to Long Island University before 8452 spectators at Madison Square Garden last night.

In the other game of the double-header, City College beat Brookline College, 49-40. Long Island overcame a 17-point deficit in the last 14 minutes of play to win out on Hand Benders' basket in the last few seconds. It was the Blackbirds' 21st victory in 23 games.

The Indiana Tourists trimmed St. Francis of Brooklyn, 57-47. The only other major Eastern tilt saw George Washington whip Virginia Tech, 54 to 37.

A. A. U. Hockey At Garden

The annual New England A. A. U. hockey championships will be decided at the Boston Garden in two-day tourney starting tomorrow and winding up the next day.

Teams from Vermont and New Hampshire will compete against the outstanding club teams in this State.

Vermont will be represented by the Barre Hockey Club and the Winoski Red Wings. New Hampshire is sending the White Park Club of Concord and the Berlin Hockey Club to the tourney.
